

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

M' FINGAL

CANTO FIRST.

THE TOWN-MEETING, A. M.

WHEN Yankies,* skill'd in martial
[rule,
First put the British troops to school;
Instructed them in warlike trade,
And new manœuvres of parade;
The true war-dance of Yankey-reels,
And manual exercise of heels;
Made them give up, like saints complete,
The arm of flesh, and trust the feet,
And work like Christians undissembling,
Salvation out by fear and trembling;
Taught Percy fashionable races,
And modern modes of Chevy-Chases:†

Yankies, a term formerly of derision, but now merely of distinction, given to the people of the four Eastern States.*

†Lord Percy commanded the party that was first opposed by the Americans at

From Boston, in his best array,
Great 'Squire M'Fingal took his way,
And, grac'd with ensigns of renown,
Steer'd homeward to his native town.

His high decent our herals trace
To *Ossian's fam'd Fingalian race ;
For though their name some part may [lack,

Old Fingal spelt it with a Mac ;
Which great M'Pherson, with sub[mission,

We hope will add the next edition.
His fathers flourish'd in the Highlands
Of Scotia's fog-benighted islands ;
Whence gain'd our 'Squire two gifts by [right;

Rebellion and the Second-sight.
Of these the first, in ancient days,

Lexington. This allusion to the family renown of Chevy-Chase arose from the precipitate manner of his quitting the field of battle, and returning to Boston.

* " See Fingal, an ancient Epic Poem, published as the work of Ossian, a Caledonian Bard, of the third Century, by James M'Pherson, a Scotch ministerial scribbler.

Had gain'd the noblest palms of praise,
'Gainst Kings stood forth, and many a
[crown'd head
With terror of its might confounded;
Till rose a King with potent charm
His foes with goodness to disarm;
Whom ev'ry Scot and Jacobite
Straight fell in love with—at first sight;
Whose gracious speech, with aid of [pensions,
Hush'd down all murmurs of dissensions,
And with the sound of potent metal,
Brought all their blust'ring swarms to [settle;
Who rain'd his ministerial mannas,
Till loud Sedition sung Hosannas;
The good Lords-Bishops and the Kirk
United in the public work;
Rebellion from the northern regions,
With Bute and Mansfield swore alle[giance,
And all combin'd to raze, as nuisance,
Of church and state, the constitutions;
Pull down the empire, on whose ruins
They meant to edify their new ones;
Enslave the Amer'can wildernesses,
And tear the provinces in pieces.

For these our 'Squire, among the va-
[liant'st,
Employ'd his time and tools and talents;
And in their cause with manly zeal,
Us'd his first virtue to rebel ;
And found this new rebellion pleasing
As his old king-destroying treason.

Nor less avail'd his optic sleight,
And Scottish gift of second-sight.
No ancient sybil, fam'd in rhyme,
Saw deeper in the womb of time ;
No block in old Dodona's grove,
Could ever more orac'lar prove.
Nor only saw he all that was,
But much that never came to pass ;
Whereby all Prophets' far out-went he,
Though former days produc'd a plenty:
For any man with half an eye,
What stands before him may espy ;
But optics sharp it needs, I ween,
To see what is not to be seen.
As in the days of ancient fame
Prophets and 'poets were the same,
And all the praise that poets gain
Is but for what th' invent and feign :
So gain'd our 'Squire his fame by seeing
Such things as never would have being.
Whence he for oracles was grown

The very tripod* of his town.
Gazettes no sooner rose a lie in,
But straight he fell to prophesying ;
Made dreadful slaughter in his course,
O'erthrew provincials, foot and horse ;
Brought armies o'er by sudden pressings,
Of Hanoverians, Swiss, and Hessians ;
Feasted with blood his Scottish clan,
And hang'd all rebels to a man ;
Divided their estates and pelf,
And took a goodly share himself.†
All this with spirit energetic,
He did by second-sight prophetic.

Thus stor'd with intellectual riches,

* " The tripod was a sacred three legged stool, from which the ancient priests uttered their oracles."

† This prophecy, like some of the prayers of Homer's heroes, was but half accomplished. The Hanoverians, &c. indeed, came over, and much were they feasted with blood ; but the hanging of the Rebels, and the dividing their estates, remain unfulfilled. This, however, cannot be the fault of our Hero, but rather the British Minister, who left off the war before the work was completed.

Skill'd was our 'Squire in making spee[ches,
Where strength of brains united centres
With strength of lungs surpassing Sten-[tor's.

But as some muskets so contrive it,
As oft to miss the mark they drive at,
And though well aim'd at duck or plover,
Bear wide and kick their owners over :
So far'd our 'Squire, whose reas'ning
[toil

Would often on himself recoil,
And so much injur'd more his side,
The stronger arg'ments he apply'd ;
As old war-elephants, dismay'd,
Trodd down the troops they came to aid,
And hurt their own side more in battle
Than less and ordinary cattle,
Yet at town meetings eve'ry chief,
Pinn'd faith on great M'Fingal's sleeve,
And, as he motioned all by rote
Rais'd sympathetic hand to vote.

The town, our Hero's scene of action,
Had long been torn by feuds of faction ;
And as each party's strength prevails,
It turn'd up diff'rent heads or tails ;
With constant rattling, in a trice
Show'd various sides, as oft as dice :

As that fam'd weaver,* wife t' Ulysses,
By night each day's-work pick'd in [pieces ;

And though she stoutly did bestir her,
Its finishing was ne'er the nearer :
So did this town, with stedfast zeal,
Weave cobwebs for the public weal,
Which when completed, or before,
A second vote in pieces tore.

They, met, made speeches full long-
[winded,

Resolv'd, protested, and rescined ;
Addresses sign'd, then chose Commit-
[tees,

To stop all drinking of Bohea-teas ;†

* Homer's Odyssey.

† One of the subjects of dispute, which brought on the war, was a tax laid upon tea, on its importation into the then Colonies. And, therefore, one of the weapons of opposition, made use of by the people, was a universal agreement, not to drink any Tea until the tax should be taken off. The Committees here referred to, were called Committees of Safety ; part of their business was to watch over the execution

With winds of doctrine veer'd about
And turn'd all Whig-Committees out.
Meanwhile our Hero, as their head,
In pomp the tory faction led,
Still following, as the 'Squire should
[please,
Successive on, like files of geese.

And now the town was summon'd
[greeting,
To grand parading of town-meeting ;
A show, that strangers might appal,
As Rome's grave senate did the Gaul.
High o'er the rout, on pulpit-stairs,*
Like den of thieves in house of pra'yrs,
(That house, which, loth a rule to break,
Serv'd Heav'n but one day in the week,
Open the rest for all supplies
Of news and politics and lies,)
Stood forth the constable, and bore
His staff, like Merc'ry's wand of yore,
Wav'd potent round, the peace to keep,
As that laid dead men's souls to sleep.
Above and near th' Hermetic staff,

of the voluntary regulations made by the people in the several towns.

 In country-towns the towns-meeting is generally held in the Church.*

The *moderator's upper half
In grandeur o'er the cushion bow'd,
Like Sol half seen behind a cloud.
Beneath stood voters of all colors,
Whigs, tories, orators and bawlers.
With ev'ry tongue in either faction,
Prepar'd like minute-men,† for action ;
Where truth and falsehood, wrong and [right,
Draw all their legions out to fight ;
With equal uproar, scarcely rave
Opposing winds in Æolus' cave ;
Such dialogues, with earnest face,
Held never Balaam with his ass.

With daring zeal and courage blest,
Honorius first the crowd address'd ;
When now our 'Squire, returning late,
Arriv'd to aid the grand debate,

* Moderator is the name commonly given to the chairman or speaker of the town-meeting. He is here seated in the pulpit.

† Minute-men were that part of the militia of our country who, being drafted and enrolled by themselves, were prepared to march at a minute's warning, wherever the public safety required.

With strange sour faces sat him down,
While thus the orator went on :

“—For ages blest, thus Britain rose,
The terror of encircling foes ;
Her heroes rul'd the bloody plain ;
Her conqu'ring standard aw'd the main ;
The diff'rent palms her triumphs grace,
Of arms in war, of arts in peace :
Unharrass'd by maternal care,
Each rising province flourish'd fair ;
Whose various wealth with lib'ral hand,
By far o'erpaid the parent land.
But though so bright her sun might shine,
'Twas quickly hasting to decline,
With feeble rays, too weak t' assuage
The damps that chill the eve of age.

“ For states, like men, are doom'd as [well

Th' infirmities of age to feel ;
And from their different forms of empire,
Are seiz'd with every deep distemper.
Some states high fevers have made head

[in Which nought could cure but copious
[bleeding ;

While others have grown dull and dozy,
Or fix'd in helpless idiocy ;
Or turn'd demoniacs, to belabour

Each peaceful habitant and neighbor ;
Or, vex'd with hypocendriac fits ;
Have broke their strength, and lost their

[wits.

“ Thus now, while hoary years pre-

[vail,

Good Mother Britian seem'd to fail ;
Her back bent, crippled with the weight
Of age and debts, and cares of state :
For debts she ow'd, and those so large
That twice her wealth could not dis-

[charge ;

And now 'twas thought, so high they'd

[grown,

She'd break, and come upon the town ;*
Her arms of nations once the dread,
She scarce could live above her head ;
Her deafen'd ears ('twas all their hope)
The final trump perhaps might ope,
So long they'd been in stupid mood,
Shut to the hearing of all good ;
Grim Death had put her in his scroll,

* To come upon the town, that is, to become a public charge. This remark will serve to explain many other allusions to town regulations in the course of this Poem.

Down on the execution roll ;
And Gallic crows, as she grew weaker,
Began to whet their beaks to pick her.
And now her powers decaying fast,
Her grand climat'ric had she past,
And just like all old women else,
Fell in the vapours much by spells.
Strange whimsies on her fancy struck,
And gave her brain a dismal shock ;
Her mem'ry fails, her judgment ends ;
She quite forgot her nearest friends ;
Lost all her former sense and knowledge,
And fitted fast for Bethle'm college :
Of all the pow'rs she once retain'd,
Conceit and pride alone remain'd.
As Eve, when falling, was so modest
To fancy she could grow a goddess ;
As madmen, straw, who long have slept
[on,
Will style them, Jupiter, or Neptune ;
So Britain, 'midst her airs so flighty,
Now took a whim to be almighty ;
Urg'd on to desp'rate heights of frenzy,
Affirm'd her own Omnipotency ;*

* See the act declaring that the King and Parliament had " a right to bind the Colonies in all cases whatsoever."

Would rather ruin all her race,
Than 'bate supremacy an ace ;
Assum'd all rights divine, as grown
The church's head, like good pope Joan;
Swore all the world should bow and skip
To her almighty Goodyship ;
Anath'matiz'd each unbeliever,
And vow'd to live and rule for ever.
Her servants humor'd every whim,
And own'd at once, her power supreme,
Her follies pleas'd in all their stages,
For sake of legacies and wages ;
In Stephen's Chapel* then in state too
Sat up her golden calf to pray to.
Proclaim'd its pow'r and right divine,
And call'd for worship at its shrine,
And for poor Heretics to burn us
Bade North prepare his fiery furnace ;
Struck bargains with the Romish chur-
[ches,
Infallibility to purchase ;
Sat wide for Popery the door,
Made friends with Babel's scarlet whore,
Join'd both the matrons firm in clan ;
No sisters made a better span.

* " The Parliament-House, is called by that name.

No wonder then, ere this was over,
That she should make her children suf[fer.

She first without pretence of reason,
Claim'd right whate'er we had to seize
[on ;

And, with determin'd resolution
To put her claims in execution,
Sent fire and sword, and call'd it, Lenity.
Starv'd us, and cristen'd it, Humanity.
For she, her case grown desperater,
Mistook the plainest thing in nature ;
Had lost all use of eyes or wits ;
Took slav'ry for the Bill of Rights ;
Trembled at whigs and deem'd them foes,
And stopp'd at loyalty her nose ;
Styl'd her own children brats and caitiffs,
And knew not us from th' Indian natives.

“ What though with suplicating prayer
We begg'd our lives and goods she'd [spare ;

Not vainer vows, with sillier call,
Elijah's prophets rais'd to Baal ;
A worshipp'd stock, of god or goddess,
Had better heard and understood us.
So once Egyptians at the Nile
Ador'd their guardian Crocodile,
Who heard them first with kindest ear,

And ate them to reward their pray'r ;
And could he talk, as kings can do,
Had made as gracious speeches too.

“ Thus spite of pray'rs her schemes
[pursuing,
She still went on to work our ruin ;
Annull'd our charters of releases,
And tore our title-deeds in pieces ;
Then sign'd her warrants of ejection,
And gallows rais'd to stretch our necks
[on :

And on these errands sent in rage,
Her bailiff, and her hangman, Gage,*
And at his heels, like dogs to bait us,
Despatch'd her Posse Comitatus.

“ No state e'er chose a fitter person
To carry such a silly farce on.

* General Gage, commander in chief of the king's troops in North-America, was appointed in 1773 governor and vice-admiral of Massachusetts, in the room of Hutchinson, who had been the most active agent of the Minister, in fomenting the disputes which brought on the war.

The character and conduct of Gage is described with great justice in the subsequent part of this speech of Honorius.

As heathen gods in ancient days
Receiv'd at second hand their praise,
Stood imag'd forth in stones and stocks,
And deified in barbers' blocks ;
So Gage was chose to represent
Th' omnipotence of Parl'ment.
And as old heroes gain'd, by shifts,
From gods (as poets tell) their gifts ;
Our gen'ral, as his actions show,
Gain'd like assistance from below,
By Satan graced with full supplies,
From all his magazine of lies :
Yet could his practice ne'er impart
The wit to tell a lie, with art :
Those lies alone are formidable,
Where artful truth is mix'd with fable ;
But Gage has bungled oft so vilely,
No soul could credit lies so silly ;
Outwent all faith, and stretch'd beyond
Credulity's extremest end.
Whence plain it seems, though Satan
[once
O'erlook'd with scorn each brainless
[dunce,
And, blund'ring brutes in Eden shunning,
Chose out the serpent for his cunning ;
Of late he is not half so nice,
Nor pick'd assistants, 'cause they're wise.

For had he stood upon perfection,
His present friends had lost th' election,
And far'd as hard in the proceeding,
As owls and asses did in Eden.

“ Yet fools are often dang'rous en'mies,
As meanest reptiles are most ven'mous;
Nor e'er could Gage by craft or prowess,
Have done a whit more mischief to us,
Since he began the unnatural war,
The work his masters sent him for.

“ And are there in this free-born land,
Among ourselves, a venal band,
A dastard race, who long have sold
Their souls and consciences for gold;
Who wish to stab their country's vitals,
If they might heir surviving titles:
With joy behold our mischief brewing,
Insult and triumph in our ruin?
Priests, who, if Satan should sit down
To make a Bible of his own,
Would gladly for the sake of mitres,
Turn his inspir'd and sacred writers;
Lawyers, who, should he wish to prove
His title t' his old seat above,
Would, if his cause he'd give 'em fees in,
Bring writs of Entry sur disseisin,
Plead for him boldly at the session,
And hope to put him in possession;

Merchants, who for his kindly aid,
Would make him partner in their trade,
Hang out their signs with goodly show,
Inscrib'd with "Belzebub and Co."

And judges, who would list his pages,
For proper liveries and wages ;
And who as humbly cringe and bow
To all his mortal servants now ?

There are ; and shame with pointing
[gestures,
Marks out the Addressers and Protes[ters ;*

Whom following down the stream of fate,
Contempts ineffable await,
And public infamy, folorn,
Dread hate, and everlasting scorn."

As thus he spake, our 'Squire M'- [Fingal

Gave to his partisans a signal.

* The Addressers were those who addressed General Gage with expressions of gratitude and attachment, on his arrival with a fleet and army to subdue the Colonies. The Protesters were those who protested against the measures of the first Congress, and the general resolutions of the country.

Not quicker roll'd the waves to land,
When Moses wav'd his potent wand,
Nor with more uproar than the Tories
Sat up a gen'ral rout in chorus;
Laugh'd, hiss'd, hemm'd, murmur'd,
[groan'd, and jeer'd :
Honorius now could scarce be heard.
Our Muse amid th' increasing roar,
Could not distinguish one word more :
Though she sat by, in firm record
To take in short hand every word ;
As ancient muses wont, to whom
Old bards for deposition come ;
Who must have writ'em ; for how else
Could they each speech verbatim tell us?
And though some readers of romances
Are apt to strain their tortured fancies,
And doubt when lovers all alone
Their sad soliloques do groan,
Grieve many a page with no one near
[em,
And notight but rocks and groves to hear
[em,
What spright infernal could have tattled
And told the authors all they prattled ;
Whence some weak minds have made
[objection,
That what they scribbled must be fiction:

'Tis false, for while the lovers spoke,
The Muse was by with table-book ;
And, lest some blunder might ensue,
Echo stood clerk, and kept the cue.
And though the speech ben't worth a
[groat,
As usual, 'tis'nt the author's fault,
But error merely of the prater,
Who should have talk'd to th' purpose
[better ;
Which full excuse, my critic brothers,
May help me out as well as others ;
And 'tis design'd, though here it lurk,
To serve as preface to this work.
So let it be—for now our 'Squire
No longer could contain his ire ;
And rising, 'midst applauding Tories,
Thus vented wrath upon Honorius.

Quoth he, " 'Tis wond'rous what [strange stuff
Your Whigs' heads are compounded of ;
Which force of logic cannot pierce,
Nor sylogistic carte & tierce,
Nor weight of scripture or of reason
Suffice to make the least impression.
Nor heeding what ye rais'd contest on,
Ye prate, and beg or steal the question ;
And when your boasted arguings fail,

Straight leave all reas'ning off, to rail.
Have not our High-Church clergy made

[it
Appear from scriptures, which ye credit,
That right divine from heaven was lent
To kings, that is, the Parliament,
Their subjects to oppress and teaze,
And serve the Devil when they please ?
Did they not write, and pray, and preach,
And torture all the parts of speech ;
About Rebellion make a pother,
From one end of the land to th' other ?
And yet gain'd fewer pros'lyte Whigs,
Than old *St. Anth'ny, 'mongst the pigs;
And chang'd not half so many vicious
As Austin, when he preach'd to fishes ;
Who throng'd to hear, the legend tells,
Were edified and wagg'd their tails ;
But scarce you'd prove it, if you tried,
That e'er one whig was edified.

Have you not heard from †Parson Wal-
[ter

Much dire presage of many a halter ?

What warnings had ye of your duty

* “ The stories of St. Anthony and his pig, and St. Austin's preaching to fishes, are told in the Popish legends. ”

From our old Rev'rend †Sam. Auchmuty!
 From priests of all degrees and metres,
 T' our sag-end man, poor *Parson Pe-
 [ters !

Have not our Cooper and our Seabury
 Sung hymns, like Barak and old Debo[rah ;

Prov'd all intrigues to set you free,
 Rebellion 'gainst the pow'rs that be ;
 Brought over many a scripture text
 That us'd to wink at rebel sects,
 Coax'd wayward ones to favor regents,
 Or paraphras'd them to obedience ;
 Prov'd every king, ev'n those confess
 Horns of th' Apocalyptic beast,

† " High-Church Clergymen, one at Boston, and one at New-York."

* " Peters, a Tory-Clergyman in Connecticut, who, after making himself detestable by his inimical conduct, absconded from the contempt, rather than the vengeance of his countrymen, and fled to England, to make complaints against that colony : Cooper, a writer, poet, and satirist of the same stamp, President of the College at New-York ; Seabury, a Clergyman of the same Province."

And sprouting from its noddles seven,
Ordain'd, as bishops are, by Heaven,
(For reasons sim'lar, we are told,
That Tophet was ordain'd of old ;)
By this lay ordination valid
Becomes all sanctify'd and hallow'd,
Takes patent out when Heav'n has [sign'd it,
And starts up straight the Lord's an[ointed :
Like extreme unction that can cleanse
Each penitent from deadly sins,
Make them run glib, when oil'd by priest,
The heavenly road, like wheels new [greas'd,
Serve them like shoe-ball, for defences
'Gainst wear and tare of consciences ;
So king's anointment cleans betimes,
Like fuller's earth, all spots of crimes ;
For future knav'ries gives commissions,
Like Papists sinning under license,
For Heaven ordain'd the origin,
Divines declare, of pain and sin ;
Prove such great good they both have [done us,
Kind mercy 'twas they came upon us :
For without pain and sin and folly,
Man ne'er were blest, or wise, or holy ;

And we should *thank the Lord 'tis so,
As authors grave wrote long ago.
Now Heav'n its issues never brings
Without the means, and these are kings;
And he who blames, when they an[nounce ills,
Would counteract the eternal councils.
As when the Jews, a murm'ring race,
By constant grumblings fell from grace,
Heav'n taught them first to know their [distance,
By famine, slav'ry, and Philistines;
When these could no repentance bring,
In wrath it sent them last a king,
So nineteen, 'tis believ'd in twenty
Of modern kings, for plagues are sent [ye;
Nor can your cavilers pretend,
But that they answer well their end.
'Tis yours to yield to their command
As rods in Providence's hand;
And if it means to send you pain,
You turn your noses up in vain:
Your only way's in peace to bear it,
And make necessity a merit.

* "See the Modern Metaphysical Divinity."

Hence sure perdition must await
The man who rises 'gainst the state,
Who meets at once the damning sentence
Without one loop-hole for repentance;
E'en though he gain'd the royal see,
And rank among the pow'rs that be :
For hell is theirs, the Scripture shows,
Whoe'er the pow'rs that be oppose,
And all those pow'rs (I am clear that ['tis so)

Are damn'd forever, ex officio.

“ Thus far our Clergy ; but 'tis true,
We lack'd not earthly reas'ners too.
Had I the *Poet's brazen lungs,
As sound-board to his hundred tongues,
I could not half the scribblers muster
That swarm'd round Rivington† in clus-
[ter ;

* “ Virgil's Ænead, 6th book, line 625.”

† The Editor of the Royal Gazette, in New-York ; a paper which answered very well to its title, it being filled with those impositions and falsehoods, which are deemed necessary to the support of Royalty in any country where printing is tolerated.

Assemblies, Councilmen forsooth ;

[Booth ;

Yet all their arguments and sap'ence
You did not value at three half-pence.
Did not one Massachusettensis*
For your conviction strain his senses ?
Scrawl every moment he could spare,
From cards and barbers and the fair ;
Show clear as sun in noon-day heavens,
You did not feel a single grievance ;
Demonstrate all your opposition
Sprung from the teggs of foul sedition;
Swear he had seen the nest she laid in,
And knew how long she had been sitting;
Could tell exact what strength of heat is
Requir'd to hatch her out Committees ;
What shapes they take, and how much
[longer's
The space before they grow t' a Con[gress?

[nish'd
Our Gage, who'd got a little tarnish'd ;
Made 'em new masks in time, no doubt,
For Hutchinson's was quite worn out ;
And while he muddled all his head,
You did not heed a word he said.
Did not our grave *Judge Sewall hit
The summit of Newspaper wit ?
Fill'd every leaf of every paper,
Of Mills, and Hicks, and mother Draper ;
Drew proclamations, works of toil,
In true sublime of scare crow-stile ;
Wrote farces too, 'gainst the Sons of [Freedom,
All for your good, and none would read
['em ;
Denounc'd damnation on their frenzy,
Who died in Whig impenitency ;
Affirm'd that Heav'n would lend us aid,

* " Attorney-General of Massachusetts Bay, a Judge of Admiralty, Gage's chief Advertiser and Proclamation-maker, author of a farce called the Americans Roused, and of a great variety of essays on the Ministerial side, in the Boston newspapers."

As all our Tory writers said ;
And calculated so its kindness,
He told the moment when it join'd us."

" 'Twas then belike," Honourous cried
" When you the public fast defied ;
Refus'd to Heav'n to raise a prayer,
Because you'd no connexions there :
And since, with rev'rend hearts and faces
To Governors you'd made addresses,
In them who made you Tories seeing
You liv'd and mov'd and had your being,
Your humble vows you would not breathe
To Pow'rs you'd no acquaintance with."

" As for your fasts," replied our [Squire,
" What circumstance could fasts require?
We kept them not, but 'twas no crime ;
We held them merely loss of time :
For what advantage firm and lasting,
Pray, did you ever get by fasting ?
And what the gains that can arise
From vows and off'rings to the skies ?
Will Heav'n reward with posts and fees,
Or send us Tea, as Consignees,*

* Alluding to the famous cargo of tea, which was sunk in Boston Harbour, the Consignees of which were the tools of Gen.
Gage.

Give pensions, sal'ries, places, bribes,
Or choose us judges, clerks, or scribes ;
Has it commissions in its gift,
Or cash to serve us at a lift ?
Are acts of Parliament there made,
To carry on the Placeman's trade ?
Or has it pass'd a single bill
To let us plunder whom we will ?
And look our list of Placemen all over ;
Did Heav'n appoint our chiefjudge Oliver
Fill that high bench with ignoramus ;
Or has its councils by mandamus ?
Who made that wit of *water-gruel,
A judge of Admiralty, Sewall ?
And were they not mere earthly struggles
That rais'd up Murray, say, and Rug[gles ?
Did Heav'n send down our pains to [med'cine,
That old simplicity of Edson ;
Or by election pick out from us,
That Marshfield blund'rer, Nat. Ray [Thomas ?
Or had it any hand in serving
A Loring, Pepp'rell, Browne, or Erving ?
" Yet we've some saints, the very thing

* " A proper emblem of his genius."

We'll put against the best you'll bring ;
For, can the strongest fancy paint
Than Hutchinson a greater saint ?
Was there a parson us'd to pray
At times more reg'lar—twice a day—
As folks exact have dinners got,
Whether they've appetites or not ?
Was there a zealot more alarming
'Gainst public vice to hold forth sermon,
Or fix'd at church, whose inward motion
Roll'd up his eyes with more devotion ?
What Puritan could ever pray
In godlier tone than Treas'rer *Gray,
Or at town-meeting speechify'ing,
Could utter more melodious whine,
And shut his eyes and vent his moan,
Like owl afflicted in the sun ?
Who once sent home, his canting rival,
Lord Dartmouth's self might out-be-dri-
[vel.]

“ Have you forgot,” Honorius cried,
“ How your prime saint the truth defied,†

* “ Treasurer of Massachusetts Bay, and one of the Madamus Council.”

† The detection of falsehood in Governor Hutchinson, here alluded to, is a curious little history. It is told at large in

Affirm'd he never wrote a line,
Your charter'd rights to undermine ;
When his own letters then were by,
That prov'd his message all a lie ?
How many promises he seal'd
To get the oppressive acts repeal'd ;
Yet, once arriv'd on England's shore,
Set on the Premier to pass more ?
But these are no defects, we grant,
In a right loyal Tory saint,
Whose godlike virtues must with ease
Atone such venal crimes as these :
Or ye perhaps in Scripture spy
A new Commandment, "Thou shalt lie;"
And if't to be so, (as who can tell ?)
There's no one, sure, ye keep so well."
Quoth he, " For lies and promise-

[breaking

Ye need not be in such a taking ;
For lying is, we know and teach,
The highest privilege of speech ;
The universal Magna Charta,
To which all human race is party ;
Whence children first, as David says,
Lay claim to 't in their earliest days ;

the Remembrancer, published by Almon,
vol. I.

The only stratagem in war
Our gen'ral's have occassion for ;
The only freedom of the press
Our politicians need in peace :
And 'tis a shame you wish't t' abridge us
Of these our darling privileges.
Thank Heav'n, your shot have miss'd
[their aim,
For lying is no sîn, or shame.

“ As men last wills may change again,
Though drawn in name of God, Amen :
Besure they must have much the more,
O'er promises as great a pow'r,
Which, made in haste, with small in[spection,
So much the more will need correction ;
And when they've careless spoke, or [penn'd 'em,
Have right to look 'em o'er and mend
[em ;

Revise their vows, or change the text,
By way of codicil annex'd,
Turn out a promise that was base,
And put a better in its place.
So Gage of late agreed, you know,
To let the Boston people go ;
Yet when he saw, 'gainst troops that [brav'd him,

They were the only guards that sav'd
[him,
Kept off that Satan of a Putnam,*
From breaking into maul and mutt'n
[him :
He'd too much wit such leagues t' ob[serve,
And shut them in again to starve.

" So Moses writes, when female Jews
Made oaths and vows unfit for use,
Thei' parents then might set them free
From that consc'entious tyranny :
And shall men feel that spir'tual bondage
For ever, when they grow beyond age ;
Nor have they pow'r their own oaths to [change ?

I think the tale were very strange.
Shall vows but bind the stout and strong
And let go women weak and young,
As net inclose the larger crew,
And let the smaller fry creep through ?

* General Putnam of Connecticut, who had gained great reputation, as a Partisan officer, in the war before last, came forward with activity in the beginning of the war of independence; but his age and infirmity obliged him soon to quit the field.

Besides, the Whigs have all been set on,
The Tories to affright and threaten,
Till Gage, amidst his trembling fits,
Has hardly kept him in his wits ;
And though he speak with art and finesse
'Tis said beneath duress per minas.
For we're in peril of our souls
From feathers, tar, and lib'rtty-poles :
And vows extorted are not binding
In law, and so not worth the minding.
For we have in this hurly-burly
Sent off our consciences on furlough ;
Thrown our religion o'er in form,
Our ship to lighten in the storm.
Nor need we blush your Whigs before,
If we've no virtue, you've no more.

“ Yet, black with sins, would stain a
[mitre,
Rail ye at crimes by ten tints whither ?
And, stuff'd with choler atrabilious,
Insult us here for peccadilloes ?
While all your vices run so high
That mercy scarce could find supply :
While, should you offer to repent,
You'd need more fasting days than Lent,
More groans than haunted church-yard
[valleys,

And more confessions than broad-alleys.*
I'll show you all at fitter time,
Th' extent and greatness of your crime,
And here demonstrate to your face,
Your want of virtue as of grace,
Evinc'd from topies old and recent :
But thus much must suffice at present.
To th' after portion of the day,
I leave what more remains to say ;
When I've good hope you'll all appear,
More fitted and prepar'd to hear,
And griev'd for all your vile demeanor :
But now 'tis time t' adjourn for dinner."

* Alluding to church discipline, where a person is obliged to stand in the aisle of the church, called the Broad alley, name the offence of which he has been guilty, and ask pardon of his brethren.

END OF THE FIRST CANTO.

M' FINGAL.

CANTO SECOND.

THE TOWN-MEETING, P. M.

THE Sun, who never stops to dine,
Two hours had pass'd the mid-way line;
And driving at his usual rate,
Lash'd on his downward car of state;
And now expir'd the short vacation,
And dinner done in epic fashion;
While all the crew beneath the trees,
Eat pocket-pies or bread and cheese;
For shall we like old Homer, care
To verify the bill of fare.
For now, each party, feasted well,
Throng'd in, like sheep, at sound of bell,
With equal spirit took their places;
And meeting op'd with three O yesses:
When first the daring Whigs t' oppose,
Again the great M'Fingal rose,
Stretch'd magisterial arm amain,
And thus assum'd th' accusing strain,
"Ye Whigs, attend, and hear, affrighted,

The crimes whereof ye stand indicted;
The sins and follies past all compass,
That prove you guilty, or non compos.

I leave the verdict to your senses,
And Jury of your consciences;
Which though they're neither good nor [true,

Must yet convict you and your crew.
Ungrateful sons! a factious band,
That rise against your parent land
Ye viper race, that burst in strife,
The welcomb womb that gave you life,
Tear with sharp fangs, and forked tongue
Th' indulgent bowels, whence you
[sprung;

And scorn the debt of obligation,
You justly owe the British nation,
Which since you cannot pay, your crew,
Affect to swear 'twas never due.

“Did not the deeds of England's [Primate*]

First drive your fathers to this climate,
Whom jails, and fines, and ev'ry ill

* The persecutions of the English Church under Archbishop Laud, are well known to have been the cause of the peopling of New-England.

Forc'd to their good against their will ?
Ye owe to their obliging temper,
The peopling your new-fangled empire,
While every British act and canon
Stood forth your causa sine qua non.
Did they not send you charters o'er,
And give you lands you own'd before,
Permit you to spill your blood,
And drive out heathen where you could;
On these mild terms, that, conquest won,
The realm you gain'd should be their [own ?

Or when of late, attack'd by those,
Whom her connexion made you foes,*
Did they not then, distress in war,
Send Gen'als to your help from far.
Whose aid you own'd in terms less
[haughty,
And thankfully o'erpaid your quota ?

* The war of 1775, between the English and the French was doubtless excited by circumstances foreign to the interests of the colonies which now form the United States. The colonies, however, paid more than their proportion of the expense, and the balance was repaid by the British government, after the war.

Say, at what period did they grudge
To send you Governor or Judge,
With all missionary crew,*
To teach you law and gospel too ?
Brought o'er all felons in the nation,
To help you on in population,
Propos'd their Bishops to surrender,
And made their Priests a legal tender,
Who only ask'd in surplice clad,
The symple tythe of all you had :
And now to keep all knaves in awe,
Have sent their troops t' establish law,
And with gunpowder, fire, and ball,
Reform your people one and all.
Yet, when their insolence and pride
Have anger'd all the world beside,
When fear and want at once invade,
Can you refuse to lend them aid ;
And rather risque your heads in fight,
Than gratefully throw in your mite ?
Can they for debts make satisfaction,

* The Missionaries were clergymen, ordained by the bishop of London, and settled in America. Those in the Northern Colonies were generally attached to the Royal cause.

Should they dispose their realm by auc-
[tion;

And sell off Britain's goods and land all
To France and Spain by inch of candle?
Shall good king George, with want op-
[prest,

Insert his name in bankrupt list,
And shut up shop, like failing merchant,
That fears the bailiffs, should make [search in't!

With poverty shall princes strive,
And nobles lack whereon to live?
Have they not rack'd their whole inven-
[tions,

To feed their brats on posts and pensions
Made e'en Scotch friends with taxes
[groan,

And pick'd poor Ireland to the bone ;
Yet have on hand, as well deserving,
Ten thousand bastards left for starving?
And can you now, with conscience clear
Refuse them an asylum here ?

Or not maintain, in matter fitting,
These genuine sons of Mother Britain?
T' evade these crimes of blackest grain,
You prate of Liberty in vain,
And strive to hide your vile designs,
With terms abstruse, like school-divines.

"Your boasted patriotism is scarce,
Your country's love is but a farce;
And after all the proofs you bring,
We Tories know there's no such thing:
Our English writers of great fame
Prove public virtues but a name,
Hath not *Dalrymple show'd in print,
And *Johnson too, there's nothing in't?
Produc'd you demonstration ample,
From others' and their own example,
That self is still, in either faction,
The only principle of action;
The loadstone whose attracting tether
Keeps the politic world together:
And, spite of all your double-dealing,
We Tories know 'tis so, by feeling.

"Who heeds your babbling of trans[mitting
Freedom to brats of your begetting,
Or will proceed as though they were a tie
Or obligation to posterity?
We get 'em, bear 'em, breed and nurse;
What has post'rity done for us,
That we, lest they their right should lose
Should trust our necks to gripe the noose;

* "Ministerial Pensioners."

“And who believes you will not run?
You're cowards, every mother's son;
And should you offer to deny,
We've witnesses to prove it by,
Attend th' opinion first, as referee,
Of your old Gen'ral, stout Sir Jeffery,
Who swore that with five thousand foot
He'd rout you all, and, in pursuit,
Run through the land as easily,
As camel through a needle's eye.
Did not the valiant Colonel Grant
Against your courage makes his slant,
Affirm your universal failure
In ev'ry principle of valor,
And swear no scamp'ers e'er could [match you;
So swift, a bullet scarce could catch you?
And will ye not confess in this,
A judge most competent he is,
Well skill'd on runnings to decide,
At what himself has often tried?
'Twould not, methinks; be labour lost,
If you'd sit down and count the cost;
And ere you call your Yankies out,
First think what work you've set about.
Have ye not rous'd, his force to try on,
That grim old beast, the British Lion?
And know you not that at a sup

He's large enough to eat you up ?
Have you survey'd his jaws beneath,
Drawn inventories of his teeth,
Or have you weigh'd in even balance
His strength and magnitude of talons ?
His roar would turn your boasts to fear,
As easily as sour small-beer.
And make your feet from dreadful fray,
By native instinct, run away.
Britain, depend on't, will take on her
T' assert her dignity and honor,
And ere she'd lose your share of pelf,
Destroy your country, and herself.
For has not North declar'd they fight
To gain substantial rev'nue by't,
Denied he'd ever deign to treat,
'Till on your knees, and at his feet ?
And feel you not a trifling ague,
From Van's Delenda est Carthago ?*
For this, now Britain has come to't,
Think you she has not means to do't ?
Has she not set to work all engines
To spirit up the native Indians,

* Alluding, as is supposed, to a speech in the British Parliament, in which "Delenda est Carthago," was applied to America.

Send on your backs a savage band,
With each a hatchet in his hand,
T' amuse themselves with scalping
[knives

And butcher children and your wives ;
That she may boast again with vanity,
Her English national humanity ?

(For now, in its primeval sense,
This term, humanity comprehends
All things of which, on this side hell,
The human mind is capable ;

And thus 'tis well, by writers sage,
Applied to Britain and to Gage.)

And on this work to raise allies
She sent her duplicate of Guys,
To drive at diff'rent parts at once on,
Her stout Guy Carleton and Guy John[son ;

To each of whom, to send again ye,
Old Guy of Warwick were a ninny ;
Though the dun cow he fell'd in war,
These kill-cows are his betters far.

“ And has she not assay'd her notes,
To rouse your slaves to cut your throats,
Sent o'er ambassadors with guineas,
To bribe your blacks in Carolinas ?
And has not Gage, her missionary,
Turn'd many an Afric slave t' a Tory,

And made th' Amer'can Bishop's see [grow,
By many a new-converted Negro ?
As friends to gov'rnm't did not he
Their slaves at Boston late set free ?
Enlist them in all black parade, .
Set off with regimental red ?
And were they not accounted then
Among his very bravest men ?
And when such means she stoops to take
Think you she is not wide awake ?
As Eliphaz' good man in Job,
Own'd num'rous allies through the [globe ;
Had brought the *stones along the [street
To ratify a cov'nant meet,
And every beast from lice to lions,
To join in league of strict alliance :
Has she not cring'd, in spite of pride,

* The stones and all the elements with [thee
Shall ratify a strict confed'racy ;
Wild beasts their savage temper shall [forget,
And for a firm alliance treat.

BLACKMORE'S PARAPHRASE OF JOB.

For like assistance, far and wide ?
Was there a creature so despis'd,
Its aid she has not sought and priz'd ?
Till all this formidable league rose
Of Indians, British troops, and Negroes:
And can you break these triple bands,
By all your workmanship of hands ?

" Sir," quoth Honourous, "we presume
You guess from past feats, what's to [come;

And from the mighty deeds of Gage,
Foretel how fierce the war he'll wage.
You, doubtless, recollected here
The annals of his first great year ;
While, wearying out the Tories' patience
He spent his breath in proclamations ;
While all his mighty noise and vapour
Was us'd in wrangling upon paper ;
And boasted military fits

Clos'd in the straining of his wits ;
While troops in Boston commons plac'd
Laid nought but quires of paper waste ;
While strokes alternate stunn'd the [nation,

Pretext, address, and proclamation ;
And speech met speech, fib clash'd with [fib,

And Gage still answer'd, squid for squib.

"Though this not all his time was lost on ;
He fortify'd the town of Boston ;
Built breast-works that might lend as[sistance
To keep the patriots at a distance :
(For howsoe'er the rogues might scoff,
He lik'd them best, the farthest off ;)
Of mighty use and help to aid
His courage when he felt afraid ;
And whence right off, in manful station
He'd boldly pop his proclamation.
Our hearts must in our bosoms freeze
At such heroic deeds as these."

"Vain," quoth our 'Squire," you'll [find to sneer
At Gage's first triumphant year ;
For Providence, dispos'd to teaze us,
Can use what instruments it pleases,
To pay a tax, at Peter's wish,
His chief cashier was once a Fish ;
An Ass, in Balaam's sad disaster,
Turn'd orator, and sav'd his master ;
A Goose, plac'd sentry on his station,
Preserv'd old Rome from desolation ;
An English bishop's *Cur of late

* " See Bishop Atterbury's trial."

Disclos'd rebellions 'gainst the State;
So Frogs croak'd Pharaoh to repent[ance,
And Lice revers'd the threat'ning sen-
[tence :
And Heav'n can ruin you at pleasure,
By our scorn'd Gage, as well as Cesar.
Yet did our hero in these days -
Pick up some laurel wreaths of praise.
And as the statuary of Seville
Made his crack'd saint an exc'llent [devil;
So though our war few triumphs brings,
We gain'd great fame in other things.
Did not our troops show much discerning
And skill, your various arts in learning?
Outwent they not, each native noodle
By far, in playing Yankey-Doodle !*

* Yankey-Doodle, as M'Fingal here relates, was a native Air of New-England, and was often played in derision by the British troops, particularly on their march to Lexington. Afterwards the captive army of Burgoyne was obliged to march to this tune in the ceremony of piling their arms, at Saratoga. In the course of the war, it became a favorite air of Liberty,

Which, as 'twas your New-England tune
'Twas marvellous they took so soon :
And ere the year was fully through,
Did not they learn to foot it too—
And such a dance as ne'er was known;
For twenty miles on end led down ?*
Was there a Yankee trick you knew,
They did not play as well as you ?
Did they not lay their heads together,
And gain your art to tar and feather,
When Col'nel Nesbitt through the town
In triumph bore the country-clown ?
Oh, what a glorious work to sing
The vet'ran troops of Britain's king.
Advent'ring for th' heroic laurel,
With bag of feathers and tar-barrel ?
To paint the cart where culprit ride,

like the present Ca Ira of France. It is remarkable, that after the taking of the Bastille, and before the introduction of Ca Ira, the Paris guards played Yankee Doodle.

 This is Lord Percy's modern Chevy-chace ; in which his lordship and his army were chased from Concord to Boston.*

And Nesbitt marching at his side,*

 In the winter of 1774 and 1775, the British army had been stimulated by their officers and the Tories, to an ardent desire to see hostilities commence. But the instigators, wishing the Americans to be the aggressors, used the following stratagem to complete their purpose.*

On the first of May, 1775, the king's standard was to be erected at Worcester, fifty miles from Boston, when Lieutenant Colonel Nesbitt immortalized himself by executing this plan to promote the quarrel, and give the army an opportunity of their desired revenge.

A soldier, according to his directions, sold an old rusty musket to a countryman for three dollars, who brought vegetables to market. This could be no crime in the market-man, who had an undoubted right to purchase, and bear arms. He was, notwithstanding, immediately seized by Nesbitt, and conveyed to the guard-house, where he was confined all night. Early the next morning they stripped him naked, covered him with warm tan, and then with feathers, and conducted him to the north

Great executioner and proud,
Like hangman high on Holborn road ;
And o'er the bright triumphal car
The waving ensigns of the war !
As when a triumph Rome decreed,
For great Calig'la's valiant deed,
Who had subdu'd the British seas,
By gath'ring cockles from their base ;
In pompous car the conqu'ror bore
His captiv'd scallops from the shore,
Ovations gain'd his crabs for fetching,

end of the town, then to the south end, and as far as Liberty-Tree, where they dismissed the man, through fear of the people, (who by this time had collected in large numbers) and made their retreat to their barracks.

The party consisted of about thirty grenadiers of the 47th regiment with fixed bayonets, 20 drums and fifes playing the rogue's march, headed by Nesbitt, with a drawn sword.

The magistrates of the town waited on General Gage with a complaint of this outrage ; he pretended disapprobation ; but took no steps to censure the conduct of Nesbitt, or to do justice to the man who had suffered the violence.

And mighty feats of oyster-catching:
O'er Yankies thus the war begun,
They tarr'd and triumph'd over one;
And fought and boasted through the [season,
With might as great, and equal reason.

"Yet thus though skill'd in vic'try toils
They boast, not unexpert in wiles.
For gain'd they not an equal fame in
The art and secrecy and scheming;
In stratagems show'd mighty force,
And moderniz'd the Trojan horse;
Play'd o'er again those tricks Ulyssean
In their fam'd Salem-expedition?
For as that horse, the poets tell ye,
Bore Grecian armies in his belly;
Till, their full reck'ning run, with joy
Their Sinon midwif'd them in Troy;
So in one ship was Leslie bold
Cramm'd with three hundred men in [hold,

Equipp'd for enterprise and sail,
Like Jonas stow'd in womb of whale.
To Marblehead, in depth of night,
The cautious vessel wing'd her flight.
And now the Sabbath's silent day
Call'd all your Yankies off to pray;
Remov'd each prying jealous neighbour,

The scheme and vessel fell in labour ;
Forth from its hollow womb pour'd
[hast'ly

The Myrmidons of Col'nel Leslie :
Not thicker o'er the blacken'd strand
The *Frogs' detachment rush'd to land,
Equipp'd by onset or surprise
To storm the entrenchment of the Mice.
Through Salem straight without delay,
The bold batallion took its way,
March'd o'er a bridge in open sight
Of sev'ral Yankies arm'd for fight,
Then without loss of time, or men,
Veer'd round for Boston back again ;
And found so well their projects thrive,
That ev'ry soul got home alive.

" Thus Gage's arms did fortune bless
With triumph, safety, and success :
But mercy is, without dispute,
His first and darling attribute :
So great, it far outwent and conquer'd
His military skill at Concord,
There, when the war he chose to wage,
Shone the benevolence of Gage :

* " See Homer's Battle of the Frogs and Mice.

Sent troops to that ill-omen'd place
On errands mere of special grace,
And all the work he chose them for
Was to *prevent a civil war:
And for that purpose he projected
The only certain way t' effect it,
To take your powder, stores and arms,
And all your means of doing harms;
As prudent folks take knives away,
Lest children cut themselves at play.
And yet, though this was all his scheme,
This war you still will charge on him;
And though he oft has sworn, and said it,
Stick close to facts, and give no credit.
Think you, he wish'd you'd brave and [beard him ?

Why, 'twas the very thing that scar'd
[him.

He'd rather you should all have run,
Than staid to fire a single gun.
And for the civil war you lament,
Faith, you yourselves must take the [blame in't :

For had you then, as he intended,

* See Gage's answer to Governor Trumbull.

Giv'n up your arms, it must have ended,
Since that's no war, each mortal knows
Where one side only gives the blows,
And th' others bears 'em ;on reflection,
The most you'll call it, is correction.
Nor could the contest have gone higher
If you had ne'er return'd the fire ;
But when you shot, and not before,
It then commenc'd a civil war.
Else Gage, to end this controversy,
Had but corrected you in mercy ;
Whom mother Britain, old and wise,
Sent o'er the col'nies to chastise ;
Command obedience on their peril
Of Ministerial whip and ferule ;
And since they ne'er could come of age,
Govern'd and tutor'd them by Gage,
Still more, that this was all their errand
The army's conduct makes apparent.
What though at Lexington you can say
They kill'd a few they did not fancy,
At Concord then, with manful popping,
Discharg'd a round, the ball to open ;
Yet when they saw, your rebel rout
Determin'd still to hold it out,
Did they not show their love to peace,
And wish, that, discord straight might [cease—

Demonstrate, and by proofs uncommon,
 Their orders were, to injure no man †
 For did not ev'ry Reg'lar run,*
 As soon as e'er you fir'd a gun ?
 Take the first shot you sent them greet-
 [ing,
 As meant their signal for retreating—
 And fearful if they staid to sport,
 You might by accident be hurt,
 Convey themselves with speed away
 Full twenty miles in half a day—
 Race till their legs were grown so weary
 They'd scarce suffice their weight to [carry ?
 Whence Gage extols, from gen'ral hear[say
 The †great activ'ty of Lord Percy,

* In the ancient wars in America, the term Regular, was applied to British troops, to distinguish them from the Provincials, or new levies of the country. At the commencement of the late war, the same terms of distinction were used.

† "Too much praise cannot be given to Lord Percy, for his remarkable activity through the whole day."

Gage's account of Lexington Battle.

Whose brave example led them on,
And spirited the troops to run ;
And now may boast, at royal levees,
A Yankey chace worth forty Chevys.
Yet you, as vile as they were kind,
Pursued, like tigers, still behind ;
Fir'd on them at your will, and shut
The town, as though you'd starve them

[out :
And with parade prepost'rous *hedg'd,
Affect to hold them there besieg'd ;
(Though Gage, whom proclamations
[call

Your Gov'rnor and Vice-Admiral,
Whose pow'r gubernatorial still
Extends as far as Bunker's Hill—
Whose admiralty reaches clever,
Near half a mile up Mystic river,
Whose naval force commands the seas,
Can run away whene'er he please)
Scar'd troops of tories into town,
And burnt their hay and houses down,

* “ And with a preposterous parade of military arrangement, they affect to hold the army besieged.”

Gage's last grand Proclamation.

And menac'd Gage, unless he'd flee,
To drive him headlong to the sea ;
As once, to faithless Jews a sign,
The de'el, turn'd hog-reeve, did the [swine.

“ But now your triumphs all are o'er,
For see, from Britain's angry shore,
With mighty hosts of valour, join
Her Howe, her Clinton, and Burgoyne.
As comets through th' affrighted skies
Pour baleful ruin, as they rise ;
As Ætna, with infernal roar,
In conflagration sweep the shore ;
Or as *Abijah White, when sent
Our Marshfield friends to represent,
Himself while dread array involves,
Commissions, pistols, swords, resolves,
In awful pomp descending down,
Bore terror on the factious town :
Not with less glory and affright,

* “ He was a representative of Marshfield, and employed to carry their famous town-resolves to Boston. He armed himself in a ridiculous military array, as another Hudibras, pretending he was afraid he should be robbed of them.”

Parade these Gen'ral's forth to fight.
No more each Reg'lar Col'nel *runs
From whizzing beetles, as air-guns,
Thinks horn-buga bullets—or, through [fears,
Muskitoes takes for musqueteers ;
Mor 'scapes, as though you'd gain allies
From Belzebub's whole host of flies.
No bug their warlike hearts appals,
They better know the sound of balls.
I hear the din of battle bray,
The trump of horror marks its way,
I see afar the sack of cities,
The gallows strung with Whig-Commit-
[tees ;

* “ This was a fact. Some British officers, soon after Gages arrival at Boston, walking on Beacon-Hill, after sunset, were affrighted by noises in the air (supposed to be the flying of bugs and beetles) which they took to be the sound of bullets, and left the hill with great precipitation. Concerning which they wrote terrible accounts to England of their being shot at with air-guns ; as appears by one or two letters, extracts from which were published in the English papers.

Your Moderators tric'd like vermin,
And gate-posts grac'd with heads of [Chairman;
Your Gen'als for wave-off' rings hanging
And ladders throng'd with priests haran-
[guing,
What pill'ries glad the Tories' eyes,
With Patriot-ears for sacrifice !
What whipping-posts your chosen race
Admit successive in embrace,
While each bears off his crimes, alack !
Like Bunyan's pilgrim, on his back !
Where then, when Tories scarce get [clear
Shall Whigs and Congresses appear ?
What rocks and mountains shall you
[call
To wrap you over with their fall,
And save your heads, in these sad weath-
[ers,
From fire and sword, and tar and feathers
For lo, with British troops, tar-bright,
Again our Nesbitt heaves in sight !
He comes, he comes, your lines to storm
And rig your troops in uniform !
To meet such heroes, will ye brag,
With fury arm'd and feather-bag ;
Who wield their missile pitch and tar,

With engines new in British war ?

“ Lo, where our mighty navy brings,
Destruction on her canvas wings ;

While through the deeps her potent
[thunder

Shall sound th' alarm to rob and plunder
As Phœbus first, (so Homer speaks,)

When he march'd out t' attack the [Greeks,

'Gainst mules sent forth his arrows fatal,
And slew th' auxiliaries, their cattle ;

So where our ships shall stretch the keel,
What conquer'd oxen shall they steal !

What heroes, rising from the deep,
Invade your marshall'd hosts of sheep !

Disperse whole troops of horse, and,
[pressing,

Make cows surrender at discretion ;

Attack your hens, like Alexanders,

And reg'ment rout of geese and ganders:

Or, where united arms combine,

Lead captive many a herd of swine !

Then rush in dreadful fury down

To fire on ev'ry sea-port town ;

Display their glory and their wits,

Fright unarm'd children into fits,

And stoutly from th' unequal fray

Make many a woman run away !

And can ye doubt, whene'er we please,
Our chiefs shall boast such deeds as [these ?

Have we not chiefs, transcending far
The old fam'd thunderbolts of war ;
Beyond the brave romantic fighters,
Styl'd swords of death by novel-writers,
Nor in romancing ages e'er rose
So terrible a tier of heroes.
From Gage, what flashes fright the [waves !

How loud a blunderbuss is Graves !*

How Newport dreads the blust'ring sal-
[lies,
That thunder from our pop-gun, Wal[lace !*

While noise, in formidable strains,
Spouts from his thimble-full of brains !
I see you sink with aw'd surprise !
I see our Tory-brethren rise !

* Admiral Graves and Captain Wallace lay before the town of Newport a long time, and by their "deeds above heroic," merited all the praises that discerning M'Fingal has here bestowed upon them.

And as the sect'ries Sandemanian,*
Our friends, describe their wish'd Mil[lennium ;

Tell how the world, in ev'ry region ;
At once, shall own their true religion ;
For Heav'n, with plagues of awful dread
Shall knock all hereticks o'er the head ;
And then their church, the meek in spirit
The earth, as promis'd, shall inherit,
From the dead wicked, as heir-male,
And next remainder-men in tail :
Such ruin shall the Whigs oppress !
Such spoils our Tory friends shall bless !
While confiscation at command
Shall stalk in horror through the land,
Shall give your Whig estates away,
And call our brethren in to play.

"And can ye doubt or scruple more,
These thing are near you at the door ?
Behold ! for though to reas'ning blind,
Signs of the times ye sure might mind,
And view impending fate as plain
As ye'd foretel a show'r of rain.

* The religious sect of Sandemanians have singular ideas of the Millennium. Their political religion during the Revolution was Toryism.

“Hath not Heav’n warn’d you what [must ensue,
And Providence declar’d against you;
Hung forth its dire portents of war,
By *signs and beacons in the air;
Alarm’d old women, all around,
By fearful noises under ground;
While earth for many dozen leagues,
Groan’d with her dismal load of Whigs?
Was there a meteor far and wide
But muster’d on the Tory side?
A star, malign, that has not bent
Its aspect for the Parliament,
Foreboding your defeat and misery;
As once they fought against old Sisera?
Was there a cloud that spread the skies?
But bore our armies of allies?
While dreadful hosts of fire stood forth
Mid baleful glimmerings from the [North;†

* “Such stories of prodigies were at that time industriously propagated among the Tory party in various parts of New-England, to terrify and intimidate the superstitious.”

† It is said to be a fact, that in America, about the commencement of the war

Which plainly shews which part they [join'd,
For North's the minister, ye mind ;
Whence oft your quibblers in gazettes
On Northern blasts have strain'd their [wits ;
And think you not the clouds know how
To make the pun as well as you ?
Did there arise an apparition,
Rut grinn'd forth ruin to sedition ?
A death watch, but has join'd our [leagues,
And click'd destruction to the Whigs ?
Heard ye not, when the wind was fair,
At night, our or'tors in the air,
That, loud as admiralty-libel,
Read 'awful chapters from the bible,
And death and deviltry denounc'd,
And told you, how you'd soon be trounc'd
I see to join our conqu'ring side.
Heav'n, and earth, and hell at once allyd !
See from your overthrow and end,
The Tories' paradise ascend ;

the aurora borealis, appeared more frequently than usual, and assumed more singular appearances.

Like that new world that claims its sta-
[tion

Beyond the final conflagration !

I see the day, that lots your share

In utter darkness and despair ;

The day of joy, when North, our Lord,

His faithful servants shall reward !

No Tory then shall set before him

Small wish of 'Squire, or Justice Quorum ;

But, 'fore his unmistaken eyes

See Lordships, post and pensions rise.

Awake to gladness, then ye Tories,

Th' unbounded prospect lies before us :

The pow'r display'd in Gage's banners,

Shall cut American lands to manors,

And o'er our happy, conquer'd ground

Dispense estates and titles round.

Behold the world will stare at new sets

Of home-made *earls, in Massachusetts;

Admire, array'd in ducal tassels,

Your Ol'vers, Hutchinsons and Vassals;

See, join'd in ministerial work,

His grace of Albany and York !

What Lordships from each carv'd estate

On our New-York assembly wait !

* See Hutchinson's and Oliver's letters.

What titled*Jauncys, Gales and Billops
Lord Brush, Lord Wilkins, and Lord
[Phillips ;

In wide-sleev'd pomp of godly guise,
What solemn rows of Bishops rise !
Aloft a Card'nal's hat is spread
O'er punster † Cooper's rev'rend head
In Vardell, that poetic zealot,
I view a lawn bedizen'd prelate !
While mitres fall, as 'tis their duty,
On heads of Chandler and Auchmuty !
Knights, viscounts, barons, shall ye [meet,
As thick as pavements in the street !
Ev'n I perhaps, Heav'n speed my claim,
Shall fix a Sir before my name.
For titles all our foreheads ache;
For what blest changes can they make !

* Members of the ministerial majority in the New-York assembly ; Wilkins, a noted writer.

† President Cooper, a notorious punster : Vardell, author of some poetical satires on the sons of liberty in New-York and royal professor in King's college ; Chandler and Auchmuty, High-church and Tory-writers of the clerical order.

Place rev'rence, grace, and excellence
Where neither claim'd the least pre-
[tence:

Transform by patent's magic words
Men, likest devils, into Lords;
Whence commoners, to peer translat-
[ed,

Are justly said to be created!

Now where commissioners ye saw,
Shall boards of noble deal you law!
Long rob'd comptrollers judge your [rights,

And tide-waiters start up in knights!
While Whigs, subdued in slavish awe,
Our wood shall hew, our water draw,
And bless that mildness, when past hope,
Which sav'd their necks from noose of [rope,

For as to gain assistance we
Design their negroes to set free;
For Whigs, when we enough shall bang
[em,

Perhaps 'tis better not to hang 'em;
Except their chiefs; the vulgar knaves
Will do more good preserv'd for slaves."

" 'Tis well," Honorius cried, "your [scheme

Has painted out a pretty dream.

We can't confute your second sight ;
We shall be slaves and you a knight ;
These things must come ; but I divine
They'll come not in your day, or mine.
But O ! my friends, my brethren hear,
And turn for once th' attentive ear.

We see how prompt to aid our woes,
The tender mercies of our foes ;
We see with what unvaried rancour
Till for our blood their minions hanker,
Nor ought can sate their mad ambition,
From us, but death, or worse, submis-
[sion.

Shall these then riot in our spoil,
Reap the glad harvest of our toil,
Rise from their country's ruin proud,
And roll their chariot-wheels in blood ?
And can ye sleep while high outspread
Hangs desolation o'er your head ?
See Gage, with inauspicious star,
Has op'd the gates of civil war ;
When streams of gore from freemen

[slain,

Encrimson'd Concord's fatal plain ;
Whose warning voice, with awful sound,
Still cries like Abel's, from the glister-
And Heav'n attentive to its call
Shall doom the proud oppres

" Rise then, ere run swift surprise,
 To victory, to vengeance rise !
 Hark ! how the distant din alarms !
 The echoing trumpet breathes, To arms !
 From provinces, remote afar,
 The sons of glory rouse to war ;
 'Tis Freedom calls ; th' enraptur'd

[sound

The Apalachian hills rebound ;
The Georgian shores her voice shall hear,
And start from lethargies of fear.
From the parch'd zone, with glowing ray,
Where pours the sun intenser day,
To shores where icy waters roll,
And tremble to the dusky pole,
Inspir'd by Freedom's heav'nly charms,
United nations wake to arms.
The star of conquest lights their way,
And guides their vengeance on their

[prey.—

Yes, though tyrannic force oppose,
Still shall they triumph o'er their foes,
Till Heav'n the happy land shall bless,
With safety, liberty, and peace.

And ye, whose souls of dastard

[mould,

Has painted country who pretend,

Yet want all spirit to defend ;
Who feel your fancies so prolific,
Engend'ring vision'd whims terrific,
O'er-run with horrors of coercion,
Fire, blood, and thunder in reversion,
King's standards, pill'ries, confiscations
And Gage's scare-crow proclamations,
With all the trumpery of fear ;
Hear bullets whizzing in your rear ;
Who scarce could rouse, if caught in [fray,

Presence of mind to run away ;
See nought but halters rise to view
In all your dreams (and dreams are [true;)

And while these phantoms haunt our [brains,

Bow down the willing neck to chains.
Heav'n's ! are ye sons of sires so [great,

Immortal in the fields of fate.
Who brav'd all deaths by land or sea,
Who bled, who conquer'd to be free!
Hence! coward souls, the worst disgrace
Of our forefathers, valiant race ;
Hie homeward from the glorious field ;
There turn the wheel, the distaff wield;

Act what ye are, nor dare to stain
The warrior's arms with touch profane:
There beg your more heroic wives
To guard your children and your lives;
Beneath their aprons find a screen,
Nor dare to mingle more with men."

As thus he said, the 'Tories' anger
Could now restrain itself no longer,
Who tried before by many a freak, or
Insulting noise, to stop the speaker;
Swung th' uncoil'd hinge of each pew-
[door:

Their feet kept shuffling on the floor:
Made their disapprobation known
By many a murmur, hum or groan,
That to his speech supplied the place
Of counterpart in thorough-bass:
As bag-pipes, while the tune they breathe
Still drone and grumble underneath;
Or as the fan'd Demosthenes
Harangu'd the rumbling of the seas,
Held forth, with eloquence full grave,
To audience loud of wind and wave!
And had a stiller congregation
Than Tories are, to hear th' oration,
But now the storm grew high and louder
As nearer thund'rings of a cloud are,

And ev'ry soul, with heart and voice,
Supplied his quota of the noise ;
Each list'ning ear was set on torture,
Each Tory bell'wing out, To order :
And some, with tongue not low or weak,
Were clam'ring fast, for leave to speak;
Thè moderator with great vi'lence,
The cushion thump'd with " Silence !
[silence !"]

The constable to ev'ry prater
Bawl'd out, " Pray hear the modera[tor ;"]

Some call'd the vote, and some, in turn,
Were screaming high " Adjourn, ad[journ."]

Not chaos heard such jars and clashes
When all the el'ments fought for places.
Each bludgeon soon for blows was tim'd;
Each fist stood ready cock'd and prim'd;
The storm each moment louder grew :
His sword the great M'Fingal drew,
Prepar'd in either chance to share,
To keep the peace, or aid the war.
Nor lack'd they each poetic being,
Whom bards alone are skill'd in seeing;
Plum'd Victory stood perch'd on high,
Upon the pulpit-canopy

To join, as is her custom tried,
Like Indians on the strongest side ;
The Destinies, with shears and distaff,
Drew near, their threads of life to twist
[off;

The furies 'gan to feast on blows,
And broken heads or bloody nose ;
When on a sudden, from without,
Arose a loud terrific shout ;
And straight the people all at once heard
Of tongues an universal concert ;
Like Æsop's time, as fable runs,
When ev'ry creature talk'd at once ;
Or like the variegated gabble
That craz'd the carpenters of Babel,
Each party soon forgot the quarrel,
And let the other go on parole ;
Eager to know what fearful matter
Had conjur'd up such gen'ral clatter ;
And left the church in thin array,
As though it had been lecture-day,
Our'Squire M'Fingal straitway beckon'd
The constable to stand his second,
And sallied forth, with aspect fierce,
The crowd assembled to disperse.
The moderator out of view,
Beneath a bench had lain perdue ;

Peep'd up his head to view the fray,
Beheld the wranglers run away,
And, left alone, with solemn face,
Adjourn'd them without time or place.

END OF THE SECOND CANTO.

M' F I N G A L.

CANTO THIRD.

THE LIBERTY-POLE.

NOW, arm'd with ministerial ire,
Fierce sallied forth our loyal 'Squire,
And on his striding steps attends
His desp'rate clan of Tory friends ;
When sudden met his angry eye,
A pole ascending through the sky,
Which num'rous throngs of Whiggish
[race
Were raising in the market-place ;
Not higher school-boys' kites aspire,
Or royal mast, or country spire,
Like spears at Brobdingnagian tilting,
Or Satan's walking staff in Milton ;
And on its top the flag, unfurl'd,
Wav'd triumph o'er the prostrate world
Inscrib'd with inconsistent types
Of liberty and thirteen stripes.
Beneath, the crowd, without delay,
The dedication-rites essay,

And gladly pay, in ancient fashion,
The ceremonies of libation ;
While briskly to each patriot lip
Walks eager round th' inspiring flip :*
Delicious draught, whose pow'rs inherit
The quintessence of public spirit !
Which whoso tastes, perceives his mind
To nobler politics refin'd,
Or rous'd for martial controversy,
As from transforming cups of Circe ;
Or warm'd with Homer's nectar'd li-

[quor,
That fill'd the veins of Gods with ichor.
At hand, for new supplies in store,
The tavern opes its friendly door,
Whence to and fro the waiters run,
Like bucket-men, at fires in town.
Then with three shouts that tore the sky,
'Tis consecrate to Liberty :
To guard it from the attacks of Tories,
A grand committee cull'd of four is,
Who, foremost on the patriot spot,
Had bought the flip and paid the shot.

By this M'Fingal with his train,
Advanc'd upon the adjacent plain,

* Flip is a liquor composed of beer,
rum and sugar.

And fierce, with royal rage posses'd,
Pour'd forth the zeal that fir'd his breast.
"What mad-brain'd rebel gave commis-

[sion

To raise this May-pole of sedition?
Like Babel rear'd by bawling throngs,
With like confusion, too, of tongues,
To point at heav'n, and summon down
The thunders of the British crown?
Say, will this paltry pole secure
Your forfeit heads from Gage's pow'r?
Attack'd by heroes brave and crafty,
Is this to stand your ark of safety?
Or, driv'n by Scottish laird and laddie,
Think ye to rest beneath its shadow?
When bombs, like fiery serpents, fly,
And balls move hissing through the sky,
Will this vile pole, devote to freedom,
Save, like the Jewish pole in Edom,
Or, like the brazen snakes of Moses,
Cure your crack'd skulls and batter'd [noses?

Ye dupes to ev'ry factious rogue
Or tavern-prating demagogue,
Whose tongue but rings with sound
[more full,
On th' empty drumhead of his skull;
Behold you not what noisy fools,

Use you, worse simpletons, for tools ?
For Liberty, in your own by-sense,
Is but for crimes a patent licence ;
To break of law the Egyptian yoke,
And throw the world in common stock ;
Reduce all grievances and ills
To Magna Charta of your wills ;
Establish cheats, and frauds, and non[sense,
Fram'd by the model of your conscience ;
Cry justice down, as out of fashion,
And fix its scale of depreciation ;*
Defy all creditors to trouble ye,
And pass new years of Jewish Jubilee ;
Drive judges out, like Aaron's calves,
By jurisdiction of white staves,
And make the bar, and bench, and [steeple,
Submit t' our sovereign Lord, the Peo[ple ;
Assure each knave his whole assets,

* Alluding to the depreciation of the continental paper-money. The declining value of this Currency was ascertained and declared by Congress, in what was called a scale of depreciation. See more of this subject in the last Canto.

By gen'ral amnesty of debts ;
By plunder rise to power and glory,
And brand all property as Tory ;
Expose all wares to lawful seizures
Of mobbers and monopolizers ;
Break heads, and windows, and the [peace ;
For your own interest and increase :
Dispute, and pray, and fight, and groan,
For public good, and mean your own ;
Prevent the laws, by fierce attacks,
From quitting scores upon your backs ;
Lay your old dread, the gallows, low,
And seize the stocks, your ancient foe,
And turn them as convenient engines
To wreak your patriotic vengeance ;
While all, your claims who understand
Confess they're in the owners hand :
And when by clamors and confusions,
Your freedom's grown a public nuisance,
Cry, Liberty with pow'rful yearning,
As he does, fire, whose house is burning,
Though he already has much more,
Than he can find occasion for,
While ev'ry dunce, that turns the plains
Though bankrupt in estate and brains,
By this new light transform'd to traitor,
Forsakes his plough, to turn dictator,

Starts an haranguing chief of Whigs,
And drags you by the ears like pigs.
All bluster arm'd with factious licence,
Transform'd at once to politicians;
Each leather-apron'd clown, grown
[wise,
Presents his forward face t'advise,
' And tatter'd legislators meet
From every work-shop through the [street,
His goose the tailor finds new use in,
To patch and turn the constitution;
The blacksmith comes with sledge and [grate,
To iron-bind the wheels of state;
The quack forbears his patient's souse,
To purge the Council and the house;
The tinker quits his moulds and doxies,
To cast assembly-men at proxies.
From dunghills deep of sable hue,
Your dirt-bred patriots spring to view,
To wealth and power and pension's rise,
Like new wing'd maggots chang'd to [flies;
And fluttering round in proud parade,
Strut in the robe of gay cockade.

See *Ar——d quits, for ways more cer[tain,

His bankrupt perj'ries for his fortune;
Brews rum no longer in his store,
Jockey and skipper now no more;
Forsakes his warehouses and docks,
And writs of slander for the pox,
And, purg'd by patriotism from shame
Grows Gen'ral of the foremost name.

Hiatus.†

* "Ar——d's perjuries at the time of his pretended bankruptcy, which was the first rise of misfortune; and his curious lawsuit against a brother skipper, who had charged him with having caught the above mentioned disease, by his connexion with a certain African princess in the West-Indies, with its humorous issue, are matters, not I believe so generally known, as the other circumstances of his public and private character."

† "M'Fingal having here inserted the names and characters of several great men, whom the public have not yet fully detected, it is thought proper to omit sundry paragraphs of his speech in the present edition."

For in this ferment of the stream,
The dregs have work'd up to the brim,
And by the rule of topsy-turveys,
The skum stands swelling on the sur[face.

You've caus'd your pyramid t' ascend,
And set it on the little end ;
Like Hudibras, your empire's made,
Whose crupper had o'er-topp'd his head
You've push'd and turn'd the whole [world up-

Side down and get yourselves a-top :
While all the great ones of your state.
Are crush'd beneath the pop'lar weight ;
Nor can you boast this present hour,
The shadow of the form of pow'r.
For what's your Congress,* or its end ?

* The author here, in a true strain of patriotic censure, pointed out the principal defects in the first federal Constitution of the United States ; all which have been since removed in the New Constitution, established in the year 1789. So that the prophecy below, You'll ne'er have sense enough to mend it, must be ranked among the other sage blunders of his second sighted hero.

A pow'r t' advise and recommend ;
To call for troops adjust your quotas,
And yet no soul is bound to notice ;
To pawn your faith to th' utmost limit,
But cannot bind you to redeem it,
And, when in want, no more in them
[lies
Than begging of your state-assemblies ;
Can utter oracles of dread,
Like friar Bacon's brazen head ;
But should a faction e'er dispute 'em,
Has ne'er an arm to execute 'em,
As though you chose supreme dictators,
And put them under conservators ;
You've but pursued the self same way,
With Shakespeare's Trinclo in the play,
" You shall be viceroys here, 'tis true,
But we'll be viceroys over you."
What wild confusion hence must ensue,
Though common danger yet cements
[you !
So some wreck'd vessel all in shatters,
Is held up by surrounding waters ,
But stranded, when the pressure ceases,
Falls by its rottenness to pieces :
And fall it must—if wars were ended,
You'd ne'er have sense enough to mend
[it ;

But creeping on with low intrigues,
Like vermin of an hundred legs,
Will find as short a life assign'd,
As all things else of reptile kind.
Your Commonwealth's a common har-
[lot,

The property of ev'ry varlet,
Which now in taste and full employ,
All sorts admire as all enjoy ;
But soon a batter'd strumpet grown,
You'll curse and drum her out of town.
Such is the government you chose ;
For this you bade the world be foes ;
For this so mark'd for dissolution,
You scorn the British constitution ;
That constitution, form'd by sages,
The wonder of all modern ages :
Which owns no failure in reality,
Except corruption and venality ;
And only proves the adage just,
That best things spoil'd, corrupt to [worst ;

So man, supreme in mortal station,
And mighty lord of this creation,
When once his corse is dead as herring,
Becomes the most offensive carrion
And sooner breeds the plague 'tis found,
Than all beasts rotting 'bove the ground

Yet for this gov'rment, to dismay us,
You've call'd up anarchy from chaos,
With all the followers of her school,
Uproar, and Rage, and wild Misrule;
For whom this rout of Whigs distracted
And ravings dire of ev'ry crack'd head;
These new-cast legislative engines
Of country musters and conventions,
Committees vile of correspondence,
And mobs whose tricks have almost un-
[done's;

While reason fails to check your course,
And loyalty's kick'd out of doors.
And folly, like inviting landlord,
Hoists on your poles her royal standard.
While the kings friends, in doleful
[dumps,

Have worn their courage to the stumps,
And leaving George in sad disaster,
Most sinfully deny'd their master.
What furies rag'd when you in sea,
In shape of Indians, drown'd the tea;*
When your gay sparks fatigued to [watch it,

* The persons who destroyed the cargo of Tea, above referred to, were disguised in the habits of Indians.

Assum'd the moggison and hatchet,
With wampum'd blankets hid their laces
And like their sweethearts, prim'd their [faces :

While not a Red-coat dar'd oppose,
And scarce a Tory show'd his nose ;
While Hutchinson for sure retreat,
Manœuvred to his country-seat,
And thence affrighted in the suds,
Stole off bare headed thro' the woods !
Have you not rous'd your mobs to join,
And make mandamus-men resign,
Call'd forth each duffil-dress'd curmud-
[geon,

With dirty trowsers and white bludgeon,
Fore'd all our councils through the land ;
To yield their necks to your command ;
While paleness marks their late disgra-
[ces,

Through all their rueful length of faces ?
Have you not caus'd as woful work,
In loyal city of New-York,*

* There were so many influential Tories in New-York, that they at first obtained a vote in favor of the Acts of Parliament, and against the proceedings of the first Congress.

When all the rabble well cockaded,
In triumph through the streets paraded;
And mobb'd the Tories, scar'd their [spouses,

And ransack'd all the custom-houses,
Made such a tumult, bluster, jarring,
That, mid the clash of tempests war-

[ring,

Smith's weathercock, with veers for[lorn,*

Could hardly tell which way to turn;
Burnt effigies of th' Higher Powers,
Contriv'd in planetary hours,
As witches, with clay images,
Destroy or torture whom they please :
Till, fir'd with rage. th' ungrateful club,
Spar'd not your best friend, Belzebub,
O'erlook'd his favors, and forgot
The rev'rence due t' his cloven foot,
And in the self-same furnace frying,
Burn'd him, and North, and Bute, and

Did you not in as vile and shallow way
 Fright our poor Philadelphian, Gallo[way,*

Your Congress, when the daring ribald
 Belied, berated and bescribbled ?

What ropes and halters did you send,
 Terrific emblems of his end,
 Till, lest he'd hang in more than effigy,
 Fled in a fog the trembling refugee ?
 Now rising in progression fatal,
 Have you not ventur'd to give battle ?
 When treason chas'd our heroes trou-

With rusty gun and leather doublet,
 Turn'd all stone-walls, and groves, and glory of burning the towns of Fairfield and Norwalk, and of issuing many proclamations. The other personages that make up this kettle of fish, Bute, Belze-bub, and North, are still living, and therefore want no explanation.*

* Galloway began by being a flaming patriot. He is one of the few men, who proved a traitor to his country, wrote against it and ran away.

To batt'ries arm'd with blunderbusses,
And with deep wounds, the fate portend
Gall'd many a Reg'lar's latter end,
Drove them to Boston, as in jail,
Confin'd without main-prize or bail,
Were not these deeds enough betimes,
To heap the measure of your crimes,
But in this loyal town and dwelling,
You raise these ensigns of rebellion ?
'Tis done ; fair Mercy shuts her door ;
And vengeance now shall sleep no more ;
Rise then, my friends, in terror rise,
And wipe this scandal from the skies !
You'll see their Dagon, though well
[jointed,

Will sink before the Lord's anointed,
And like old Jericho's proud wall,
Before our ram's horns prostrate fall."

This said, our 'Squire, yet undismay'd
Call'd forth the Constable to aid,
And bade him read in nearer station,
The riot-act and proclamation ;*

* Reading the Riot-act has the same miraculous effect in America as in England : it may convert any collection of men into a riot, and is the tremendous prologue to any tragedy that may result from the exercise of Martial Law.

Who now, advancing tow'rd the ring,
Began, "Our sovereign Lord the King"
When thousand clam'rous tongues he [hears,

And clubs and stones assail his ears ;
To fly was vain, to fight was idle,
By foes encompass'd in the middle ;
In stratagem his aid he found,
And fell right craftily to ground ;
Then crept to seek an hiding place,
'Twas all he could, beneath a brace ;
Where soon the conqu'ring crew espied

[him,
And where he lurk'd they caught and [tied him,

At once with resolution fatal,
Both Whigs and Tories rush'd to battle;
Instead of weapons, either band
Seiz'd on such arms, as came to hand.
And as fam'd Ovid* paints th' adven-
[tures

Of wrangling Lapithæ and Centaurs,
Who at their feast, by Bacchus led,
Threw bottles at each other's head,
And these arms failing in their scuffles,

* " Ovid's Metamorphoses, Book xii."

Attack'd with handirons, tongs, and [shovels:

So clubs and billets, staves and stones
Met fierce, encountring every sconce,
And cover'd o'er with nobs and pains
Each void receptacle for brains;
Their clamours rend the hills around,
And earth rebellows with the sound:
And many a groan increas'd the din
From broken nose and batter'd shin.

M'Fingal, rising at the word,
Drew forth his old militia sword;
Thrice cried, "King George," as erst
[in distress

Romancing heroes did their mistress,
And, brandishing the blade in air,
Struck terror through th' opposing war.
The Whigs, unsafe within the wind
Of such commotion, shrunk behind.
With whirling steel around address'd,
Fierce through their thickest throng he [press'd,

{Who roll'd on either side in arch,
Like Red-sea waves in Israel's march)
And like a meteor rushing through,
Struck on their pole a vengeful blow.
Around, the Whigs, of clubs and stones
Discharg'd whole vollies in platoons,

That o'er in whistling terror fly;
But not a foe dares venture nigh.

And now, perhaps, with conquest
[crown'd,

Our 'Squire had fell'd their poll to,
[ground'

Had not some pow'r, a Whig at heart,
Descended down and took their part ;
(Whether 'twere Pallas, Mars, or Iris,
'Tis scarce worth while to make inqui[ries,)

Who at the nick of time alarming,
Assum'd the graver form of Chairman ;
Address'd a whig in ev'ry scene

The stoutest wrestler on the green,
And pointed where the spade was found,
Late us'd to fix the pole in ground,
And urg'd with equal arms and might
To dare our 'Squire to single fight.*

The Whig, thus arm'd, untaught to yield
Advanc'd tremendous to the field ;
Nor did M'Fingal shun the foe,

* " The learned reader will readily observe the allusions in this scene to the single combat of Paris and Menelaus, in Homer ; Æneas and Turnus in Virgil, and Michael and Satan in Milton."

But stood to brave the desp'rate blow ;
 While all the party gaz'd, suspended,
 To see the deadly combat ended.
 And Jove in equal balance weigh'd
 The sword against the brandish'd spade:
 He weigh'd ; but lighter than a dream,
 The sword flew up, and kick'd the beam.
 Our 'Squire on tiptoe rising fair,
 Lifts high a noble stroke in air,
 Which hung not, but like dreadful en-
[gines

Descended on the foe in vengeance.
 But ah ! in danger with dishonor,
 The sword perfidious fails its owner ;
 The sword, which oft had stood its
[ground
 By huge train-bands encompass'd [round,*

Or on the bench, with blade right loyal,
 Had won the day at many a trial,
 Of stones and clubs had brav'd th'
[alarms,
 Shrunk from these new Vulcanian arms.
 The spade so temper'd from the sledge,
 Nor keen nor solid harm'd its edge.

* A train band is a Captain's company in the Militia.

Now met it from his arm of might
Descending with steep force to smite ;
The blade snapp'd short—and from his [hand
With rust embrown'd the glitt'ring sand.
Swift turn'd M'Fingal at the view,
And call'd for aid th' attendant crew,
In vain ; the Tories all had run,
When scarce the fight was well begun ;
Their setting wigs he saw decreas'd,
Far in th' horizon tow'rd the west,
Amaz'd he view'd the shameful sight,
And saw no refuge but in flight :
But age unwieldy check'd his pace,
Though fear had wing'd his flying race ;
For not a trifling prize at stake ;
No less than great M'Fingal's back.
With legs and arms he work'd his [course,
Like rider that outgoes his horse,
And labour'd hard to get away, as Old Satan* struggling on through Chaos:
Till, looking back, he spied in rear
The spade arm'd chief advanc'd too [near.

* In Milton.

Then stopp'd and seiz'd a stone that lay
 An ancient land-mark near the way;
 Nor shall we, as old Bards have done,
 Affirm it weigh'd an hundred ton;
 But such a stone as at a shift,
 A modern might suffice to lift.
 Since men, to credit their enigmas,
 Are dwindled down to dwarfs and pig-

[mies;

And giants, exil'd with their cronies,
 To Brobdingnags and Patagonies.
 But while our hero turn'd him round,
 And stoop'd to raise it from the ground,
 The deadly spade discharg'd a blow
 Tremendous on his rear below:
 His bent knee fail'd, and, void of strength
 Stretch'd on the ground his manly

[length;

Like ancient oak o'erturn'd he lay,
 Or tow'rs to tempests fall'n a prey,
 And more things else—but all men know

[em,

If slightly vers'd in epic poem.
 At once the crew at this sad crisis,
 Fall on and bind him ere he rises,
 And with loud shouts and joyful soul
 Conduct him pris'ner to the pole.

When now the mob in lucky hour,

Had got their en'mies in their pow'r,
They first proceed by wise command,
To take the Constable in hand ;
Then from the pole's sublimest top
They speeded to let down the rope,
At once its other end in haste bind,
And make it fast upon his waistband,
Till, like the earth, as stretch'd on'ten-
[ter,

He hung self-balanc'd on his centre.
Then upwards, all hands hoisting sail,
They swung him, like a keg of ale,
Till to the pinnacle so fair,
He arose like meteor in the air.
As Socrates *of old at first did,
To aid philosophy, get hoisted,
And found his thoughts flow strangely
[clear,

Swung in a basket mid air :
Our culprit thus in purer sky,
With like advantage rais'd his eye ;
And looking forth in prospect wide,
His Tory errors clearly spy'd,
And from his elevated station,

* Socrates is represented in Aristophanes's comedy of the clouds, as hoisted in a basket to aid contemplation.

With bawling voice began addressing:
" Good gentlemen, and friends, and kin,
For heav'n's sake hear, if not for mine!
I here renounce the Pope, the Turks,
The King, the Devil, and all their works;
And will, set me but once at ease,
Turn Whig or Christian, what you
[please ;
And always mind your laws sō justly ;
Should I live long as old Methus'lah,
I'll never join with British rage,
Nor help Lord North, or General Gage,
Nor lift my gun in future fights,
Nor take away your charter'd rights;
Nor overcome your new-rai's'd levies,
Destroy your towns, nor burn your na-
[vies ;
Nor cut your poles down while I've [breath,
Though rais'd more thick than hatchel-
[teeth :
But leave King George and all his elves
To do their conqu'ring work themselves'
This said, they low'r'd him down in [state,
Spread at all points, like falling cat ;
But took a vote first on the question,
That they'd accept this full confession,

And to their fellowship and favour
Restore him, on his good behaviour.

Not so, our 'Squire submits to rule,
But stood heroic as a mule.

"You'll find it all in vain," quoth he,

"To play your rebel tricks on me.

All punishments the world can render,

Serve only to provoke th' offender ;

The wills confirm'd by treatment horrid,

As hides grow harder when they're cur-
[ried ;

No man e'er felt the halter draw,

With good opinion of the law ;

Or held, in method orthodox,

His love of justice in the stocks ;

Or fail'd to lose by sheriff's shears

At once his loyalty and ears.

Have you made Murray look less big,

Or smook'd old Williams to a Whig ?

Did our mobb'd Ol'ver* quit his station,

Or heed his vows of resignation ?

* This is the "Chief-Judge Oliver" of the first Canto, in whose appointment the sagacious M'Fingal perceives that Heaven had no hand. One ground of the quarrel between the British government and people of Massachusetts was,

Has Rivington,* in dread of stripes,
Ceas'd lying since you stole his types!

the act by which the Judges of the Colony were rendered independent of the Colony for their salary, as well as for their places ; which was contrary to ancient usage. When the people felt these particular acts of oppression from a power three thousand miles distant, their only method of redress was, to prevent any person from accepting an office, or from exercising its functions, under such an act. This expedient had been successful in the case of the Stamp-act a few years before: and the people now applied to Judge Oliver, requesting him to resign an office, the new arrangement of which so manifestly struck at the foundation of their liberty. The Judge promised to resign his place; but afterwards claimed that "highest privilege of speech," which M'Fingal has so well vindicated in favour of General Gage.

* Here again is an old acquaintance of the first Canto. His paper, entitled The Royal Gazette, had, by a strange combination of circumstances, obtained the name through all the country, of The Lying

And can you think my faith will alter,
By tarring, whipping, or the halter ?
I'll stand the worst ; for recompence.
I trust King George and Providence.
And when our conquest gain'd, I come,
Array'd in law and terror, home,
You'll rue this inauspicious morn,
And curse the day you e'er were born,
In Job's high style of imprecations,
With all his plagues, without his pa[tience."

Meanwhile beside, the pole, the guard
A bench of justice had prepar'd,
Where sitting round in awful sort,
The grand committe hold their court ;
While all the crew, in silent awe,
Wait from their lips the lore of law.
Few moments, with deliberation,
They hold the solemn consultation,
When soon in judgment all agree,
And clerk declares the dread decree :

Gazette. It was on this account that the people at a certain time sent a committee to take away his types. But this measure was as ineffectual as those that were used with Murray, Williams, Oliver, &c.

“ That 'Squire M'Fingal having grown
The vilest Tory in the town,
And now on full examination,
Convicted by his own confession,
Finding no tokens of repentance,
This Court proceed to render sentence :
That first the Mob a slip-knot single
Tie round the neck of said M'Fingal ;
And in due form do tar him next,
And feather, as the law directs ;
Then through the town attendant ride

[him,
In cart, with Constable beside him ;
And having held him up to shame,
Bring to the pole from whence he [came.”

Forthwith the crowd proceed to [deck,

With halter'd noose M'Fingal's neck,
While he, in peril of his soul,
Stood ty'd half hanging to the pole ;
Then lifting high the pond'rous jar,
Pour'd o'er his head the smoking tar ;
With less profusion erst was spread
The Jewish oil on royal head,
That down his beard and vestments ran
And cover'd all his outward man,

As when (so Claudian sings* the gods
And earth-born giants fell at odds,
The stout Enceladus in malice
Tore mountains up to throw at Pallas ;
And as he held them o'er his head,
The river, from their fountains fed,
Pour'd down his back its copious tide,
And wore its channels in his hide ;
So from the high-rai's'd urn, the tor-
[rents
Spread down his side their various cur-
[rents ;

His flowing wig, as next the brim,
First met and drank the sable stream ;
Adown his visage, stern and grave,
Roll'd and adher'd the viscid wave ;
With arms depending as he stood,
Each cuff capacious holds the flood :
From nose and chin's remotest end,
The tarry icicles depend ;
Till all o'erspread with colours gay,
He glitter'd to the western ray,
Like sleet-bound trees in wintry skies,
Or Lapland idol carv'd in ice.
And now the feather-bag display'd,
Is wav'd in triumph o'er his head,

* " Claudian's Gigantomachia."

And spread him o'er with feathers
[missive,

And down, upon the tar adhesive :

Not Maia's son, with wings for ears,

Such plumes around his visage wears ;

Nor Milton's six-wing'd angel gathers

Such superfluity of feathers ;

Till all complete appears our 'Squire

Like Gorgon or Chimera dire ;

Nor more could boast on * Plato's plan

To rank amid the race of man,

Or prove his claim to human nature,

As a two-legg'd unfeather'd creature.

Then on the two-wheel'd car of state,

They rais'd our grand Duumvirate.

And as at Rome a like committee,

That found an owl within their city,

With solemn rites and sad processions,

At ev'ry shrine perform'd lustrations ;

And lest infection should abound,

From prodigy with face so round,

All Rome attends him through the street,

In triumph to his country-seat ;

With like devotion all the choir

Paraded round our feather'd 'Squire ;

* "Alluding to Plato's famous definition of Man, "Animal bipes, implumia."

In front the martial music comes
Of horns and fiddles, fifes and drums,
With jingling sound of carriage bells,
And treble creak of rusted wheels ;
Behind, the crowd, in lengthen'd row ;
With grave procession, clos'd the show ;
And at fit periods ev'ry throat
Combin'd in universal shout,
And hail'd great Liberty in chorus,
Or bawl'd confusion to the Tories.
Not louder storm the welkin braves,
From clamours of conflicting waves ;
Less dire in Lybian wilds the noise,
When rav'ning lions lift their voice ;
Or triumphs at town-meetings made,
On passing votes to reg'late trade.*

Thus having borne them round the [town,
Last at the pole they set them down,
And tow'rd the tavern take their way,
To end in mirth the festal day.

* Such votes were frequently passed at Town meetings ; the object of which was, to prevent the augmentation of prices on the necessaries of life, and thus to obviate the effects of the depreciation of the paper-money.

And now the Mob, dispers'd and gone,
Left 'Squire and Constable alone.
The Constable in rueful case,
Lean'd sad and solemn o'er a brace,
And fast beside him, cheek by jowl,
Stuck 'Squire M'Fingal 'gainst the pole,
Glued by the tar, t' his rear apply'd,
Like barnacle on vessel's side.
But though his body lack'd physician,
His spirit was in worse condition.
He found his fears of whips and ropes,
By many a drachm out-weigh'd his [hopes.

As men in gaol without main-prize,
View ev'ry thing with other eyes;
And all goes wrong in Church and State,
Seen through perspective of the gate;
So now M'Fingal's second-sight
Beheld all things in diff'rent light;
His visual nerve, well purg'd with tar,
Saw all the coming scenes of war.
As his prophetic soul grew stronger,
He found he could hold in no longer:
First from the pole, as fierce he shook,
His wig from pitchy durance broke,
His mouth unglu'd, his feathers flutter'd
His tarr'd skirts crack'd, and thus he [utter'd;

" Ah, Mr. Constable, in vain
We strive 'gainst wind, and tide, and [rain !
Behold my doom ! this feather'd omen
Portends what dismal times are coming.
Now future scenes before my eyes,
And second-sighted forms arise ;
I hear a voice that calls away,
And cries, The Wigs will win the day ;
My beck'ning Genius gives command,
And bids us fly the fatal land ;
Where, changing name and constitution,
Rebellion turns to Revolution,
While Loyalty, oppress'd in tears,
Stands trembling for his neck and ears.
Go, summon all your brethren, greeting,
To muster at our usual meeting.
There my prophetic voice shall warn
['em,
Of all things future that concern 'em,
And scenes disclose, on which, my friend,
Their conduct and their lives depend :
There I—but first 'tis more of use,
From this vile pole to set me loose ;—
Then go with cautious steps and steady,
While I steer home and make all ready."

END OF THE THIRD CANTO.

M' FINGAL.

CANTO FOURTH.

THE VISION.

NOW night came down, and rose full [soon,
That patroness of rogues, the Moon,
Beneath whose kind, protecting ray,
Wolves, brute and human, prowl for [prey.
The honest world all snored in chorus,
While owls, and ghosts, and thieves and [Tories,
Whom ere the mid-day sun had aw'd,
Crept from their lurking holes abroad.
On cautious hinges, slow and stiller
Wide ope'd the great M'Fingal's *cellar,

* "*Panditur interia domus omnipoten-
[tis Olympi,
Conciliumq; vocat Divum pater atq;
hominum rex, Sideream in sedem.*"

[Lib. 10. Æneid.

Where, shut from prying eyes in cluster,
The Tory Pandemonium muster,
Their chiefs all sitting round decry'd [are,

On kegs of ale, and seats of cider;
When first M'Fingal, dimly seen,
Rose solemn from the turnip-bin,
Nor yet his * form had wholly lost
The orig'nal brightness it could boast,
Nor less appear'd than Justice Quorum,
In feather'd majesty before 'em.

Adown his tar-streak'd visage clear
Fell glistening fast th' indignant tear,
And thus his voice, in mournful wise,
Pursu'd the prologue of his sighs :

Brethren and friends, the glorious;
Of royalty in rebel land ! [band
It was not thus you've seen me sitting
Return'd in triumph from town-meeting,
When blust'ring Wigs were put to stand;
And votes obey'd my guiding hand,
And new commissions pleas'd my eyes ;
Blest days, but, ah, no more to rise !
Alas ! against my better light

* " — His form had not yet lost
All its original brightness, nor appear'd
Less than Archangel ruin'd. — Milton.

And optics sure of second-sight,
My stubborn soul, in error strong,
Had faith in Hutchinson too long.
See what brave trophies still we bring
From all our battles for the king;
And yet these plagues now past before us,
Are but our entering-wedge, of sorrows.
I see, in glooms tempestuous, stand
The cloud impending o'er the land;
That cloud, which still beyond their

[hopes
Serves all our orators with tropes. [fed,
Which, though from our own vapours
Shall point its thunders on our head!
I see the Mob, beflipp'd in taverns,
Hunt us, like wolves, through wilds and [caverns.

What dungeons rise t' alarm our fears,
What horse-whips whistle round our
Tar, yet in embryo in the pine [ears!
Shall run on Tories' backs to shine;
Trees rooted fair in groves of willows
Are growing for our future gallows;
And geese unhatch'd, when pluck'd in [fray,

Shall rue the feathering of that day.
For me, before these fatal days,
I mean to fly th' accursed place,

And follow omens, which of late
Have warn'd me of impending fate ;
Yet pass'd unnotic'd o'er my view,
Till sad conviction prov'd them true ;
As prophecies, of best intent,
Are only heeded in th' event,

“ For late in visions of the night
The gallows stood before my sight ;
I saw its ladder heav'd on end ;
I saw the deadly rope descend ;
And in its noose, that wav'ring swang,
Friend *Malcolm hung, or seem'd to [hang.

* “ Malcolm was a Scotchman, Aid to Governor Tryon in his expedition against the Regulators in North Carolina, where, in the engagement, he met with the accident of the breeches here alluded to. He was afterwards an under-officer of the customs in Boston, where, becoming obnoxious, he was tarred, feathered, and half-hanged by the mob, about the year 1774. After this, he was neglected and avoided by his own party, and thinking his merits and sufferings unrewarded, appeared equally malevolent against Whigs and Tories.”

How chang'd from him, who, bold as [lion,
 Stood Aid-de-Camp to Gov'rnor Tryon;
 Made rebels vanish once, like witches,
 And sav'd his life, but dropp'd his bree-
 [ches!

I scarce had made a fearful bow,
 And trembling ask'd him, "How d'ye
 [do?"

When, lifting up his eyes so wide,
 (His eyes alone—his hands were ty'd;)
 With feeble voice, as spirits use,
 Now almost choak'd with gripe of [noose;

*"Ah! fly, my friend," he cry'd, "es[cape,
 And keep yourself from this sad scrape;
 Enough you've talk'd, and writ, and [plann'd;

The Whigs have got the upper hand.
 Dame Fortune's wheel has turn'd so [short,

"The pretences of the Highlanders to prophecy by second-sight are too well known to need an explanation."

There is in this scene a general allusion to the appearance and speech of Hector's ghost, in the second book of the Æneid.*

It plung'd us fairly in the dirt ;
Could mortal arm our fears have ended,
This arm (and shook it) had defended.
But longer now 'tis vain to stay ;
See ev'n the Reg'lars run away :
Wait not till things grow desperater,
For hanging is no laughing matter :
This might your grandsires' fortunes [tell you on,
Who both were hang'd the last rebel-
[lion ;
Adventure, then, no longer stay,
But call your friends, and run away.
For lo, through deepest glooms of night,
I come to aid thy second sight,
Disclose the plagues that round us
[wait,
And wake the dark decrees of fate.
Ascend this ladder, whence unfurl'd,
The curtain opes of th' other world ;
For here new worlds their scenes unfold,
Seen from this back-door of the old.*

 That the gallows is the back-door leading from this to the other world, is a perfectly new idea in Epic Poetry ; unless the hint might have been taken from the rear-trumpet of Fame in Hudibras.*

As when Æneas risq'd his life,
Like Orpheus vent'ring for his wife,
And bore in show his mortal carcass,
Through realms of Erebus and Orcus,
Then in the happy fields Elysian,
Saw all his embryo sons in vision :
As shown by great archangel, Michael,
Old Adam saw the world's whole sequel
And from the mount's extended space,
The rising fortunes of his race ;
So from this stage shalt thou behold
Thè war its coming scenes unfold,
Rais'd by my arm to meet thine eye ;
My Adam, thou ; thine angel, I.
But first my pow'r, for visions *bright,
Must cleanse from clouds thy mental [sight,
Remove the dim suffusions spread,
Which bribes and sal'ries there have [bred ;
And, from the well of Bute, infuse
Three genuine drops of Highland dew,
To pruge, like euphrasy and rue,
Thine eyes, for much thou hast to view.
“Now, freed from Tory darkness, raise,
Thy head, and spy the coming days ;

*See Milton's Paradise Lost, Book II.

For lo, before our second-sight;
The Continent ascends in light;
From north to south what gath'ring
[swarms
Increase the pride of rebel arms!
Through ev'ry State our legions brave
Speed gallant marches to the grave,
Of battling Whigs the frequent prize,
While rebel trophies stain the skies.
Behold, o'er nothern realms afar,*

Nothing less than the whole History of the Am. War would be sufficient, completely to illustrate the merits of this single paragraph. Malcolm, the gallows-taught prophet, in preparing the mind of M^r Fingal to contemplate, with proper intelligence, the various scenes that are to rise successively to view in the course of the Vision, glances over the Continent, and mentions in this passage the principal scenes of action, from the expedition into Canada in 1775, to the capture of Lord Cornwallis in 1781. The concluding part of his speech is therefore a kind of argument to this whole book of Vision; in which the same objects are unfolded at large, with their attendant circumstances; in order that they make a proper impression on the* Extended the kindling flames of war!

See fam'd St. John's and Montreal,
Doom'd by Montgom'ry's arm to fall!
Where Hudson with majestic sway,
Through hills disparted ploughs his way,
Fate spreads on Bemus' Heights alarms,
And pours destruction on our arms;
There Bennington's ensanguin'd plain,
And Stony-Point, the prize of Wane.
Behold near Del'ware's icy roar,
Where morning dawns on Trenton's elevated mind of the great M'Fingal. It is thus that our Poet, like Homer, in his Iliad, seizes all occasions to do honor to his principal hero. By supposing him already possessed of all natural and political knowledge that could be obtained by mortal study and experience, he makes him, like Achilles, capable of receiving instruction only by the agency of a super-terrestrial power. The advisers of Achilles descended from the skies, that of M'Fingal is mounted towards the skies.

Nor ought avail, to Whigs a prize,
Their marshal whiskers' grisly size.
On Princeton plains our heroes yield,
And spread in flight the vanquish'd field,
While fear to Mawhood's heels put on
Whigs, wide as worn by Maia's son,
Behold the Pennsylvanian shore,
Enrich'd with streams of British gore;
Where many a vet'ran chief in bed
Of honor rests his slumb'ring head,
And in soft vales, in land of foes,
Their wearied virtue finds repose,
See plund'ring Dunmore's negro band
Fly headlong from Virginia's strand;
And far on southern hills, our cousins,
The Scotch M'Donalds, fall by dozens;
Or where King's Mountains lift its head,
Our ruin'd bands in triumph led!
Behold o'er Tarleton's blust'ring train,
The Rebels stretch the captive chain!
After near Eutaw's fatal springs
Descending Vict'ry spreads her wings!
Through all the land in various chase,
We hunt the rainbow of success;
In vain! their Chief, superior still,
Eludes our force with Fabian skill;
Or swift descending by surprise,
Like Prussia's eagle, sweeps the prize."

I look'd ; nor yet opprest with fears,
Gave credit to my eyes or ears,
But held the views an empty dream,
On Berkley's immaterial scheme ;
And pond'ring sad, with troubled breast
At length my rising doubts express'd.

"Ah, whither, thus by rebels smitten,
Is fled th' omnipotence of Britain,
Or fail'd his usual guard to keep,
Gone truanting or fall'n asleep ;*
As Baal his prophets left confounded,
And bawling vot'ries gash'd and wound-
[ed ?

Did not, retir'd to bow'rs Elysian,
Great Mars leave with her his commis-
[sion,
And Neptune erst, in treaty free,

* "Cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is talking, or he is pursuing, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth.— And they cried aloud, and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lancets."

i. Kings, chap. xviii. The other original subjects alluded to in the subsequent part of this speech, may be found by the curious reader in the various and immortal works mentioned by the poet in the text.

Give up dominion o'er the sea ?
Else where's the faith of fam'd orations,
Address, debate, and proclamations,
Or courtly sermons, laureat ode,
And ballads on the wat'ry god ;
With whose high strains great George
[enriches

His eloquence of gracious speeches ?
Not faithful to our Highland eyes,
These deadly forms of vision rise ;
But sure some Whig-inspiring sprite
Now palms delusion on our sight.
I'd scarcely trust a tale so vain,
Should revelation prompt the strain,
Or Ossian's ghost the scenes rehearse,
In all the melody of *Erse."

"Too long, quoth Malcolm, with con[fusion,

You've dwelt already in delusion,
As Sceptics, of all fools the chief,
Hold faith in creeds of unbelief.
I come to draw thy veil aside
Of error, prejudice, and pride.
Fools love deception, but the wise
Prefer sad truth to pleasing lies.

* "Erse, the ancient Scottish language, in which Ossian wrote his poems."

For know, those hopes can ne'er succeed
That trust on Britain's breaking reed.
For weak'ning long from bad to worse,
By fatal atrophy of purse,
She feels at length with trembling heart,
Her foes have found her mortal part,
As fam'd Achilles, dipt by Thetis
In Styx, as sung in ancient ditties,
Grew all case-harden'd o'er like steel,
Invulnerable, save his heel,
And laugh'd at swords and spears, as [squibs,
And all diseases, but the kibes ;
Yet met at last his fatal wound,
By Paris' arrow nail'd to th' ground :
So Britain's boasted strength deserts,
In these her empire's utmost skirts,
Remov'd beyond her fierce impressions,
And atmosphere of omnipresence ;
Nor to these shores' remoter ends,
Her dwarf omnipotence extends :
Whence in this turn of things so strange,
'Tis time our principles to change.
For vain that boasted faith, which gathers
No perquisite, but tar and feathers,
No pay, but Whigs' insulting malice,
And no promotion but the gallows,
I've long enough stood firm and steady,

Half-hang'd for loyalty already:
And could I save my neck and pelf,
I'd turn a flaming Whig myself,
And quit this cause, and course, and
Like rats that fly from house that's [calling, [falling.

But since, obnoxious here to Fate,
This saving wisdom comes too late,
Our noblest hopes already crost,
Our sal'ries gone, our titles lost,
Doom'd to worse suff'rings from the Mob,
Than Satan's surg'ries used on Job;
What more remains but now with sleight,
What's left of us to save by flight?

“Now raise thine eyes; for visions true
Again ascending wait thy view.”

I look'd: and, clad in early light,
The spires of Boston rose to sight;
The morn o'er eastern hills afar,
Illumin'd the varying scenes of war.
Great Howe had long since in the lap
Of Loring taken out his nap,
And with the sun's ascending ray,
The cuckold came to take his pay.
When all th' encircling hills around,
With instantaneous breast-works
[crown'd,

With pointed thunders met his sight,
By magic rear'd the former night,
Each summit far, as eye commands,
None peopled with rebellious bands. .
Aloft their tow'ring heroes rise,
As Titans erst assail'd the skies,
Leagu'd with superior force to prove,
The sceptred hand of British Jove,
Mounds, pil'd on hills, ascended fair,
With batt'ries, plac'd in middle air,
That rais'd like angry clouds on high,
Seem'd like th' artill'ry of the sky,
And hurl'd their fiery bolts amain,
In thunder on the trembling plain.
I saw along the prostrate strand,
Our baffl'd Gen'als quit the land,
And, swift as frighted mermaids, flee,
T' our boasted element, the sea,
Resign that long contested shore,
Again the prize of rebel-power,
And tow'rd their town of refuge fly,
Like convict Jews, condemn'd to die.
When tow'rd the north I turn'd my eyes,
Where Saratoga's heights arise,
And saw our chosen vet'ran band,
Descend in terror o'er the land ;
T' oppose their fury of alarms,
Saw all New-England wake to arms,

And ev'ry Yankee, full of mettle,
Swarm forth, like bees at sound of kettle.
Not Rome, when Tarquin rap'd Lu[cretia,
Saw wilder must'ring of militia.
Through all the woods and plains of [fight,
What mortal battles fill'd my sight,
While British corses strew'd the shore,
And Hudson ting'd his streams with gore !
What tongue can tell the dismal day,
Or paint the party-colour'd fray ;
When yeomen left their fields afar,
To plough the crimson plains of war ;
When zeal to swords transform'd their [shares,
And turn'd their pruning hooks to spears,
Chang'd tailor's geese to guns and ball,
And stretch'd to pike the cobbler's awl ;
While hunters fierce, like mighty Nim-
[rod,
Made on our troops a daring inroad ;
And lev'lling squint on barrel round,
Brought our beau-officers to ground ;
While rifle-frocks sent Gen'ral cap'ring ;
And Red-Coats, shrunk from leathern
[apron,

And epaulet and gorget run
From whinyard brown and rusty gun:
Whiles un-burnt whigs, in high command
Rush furious on our frightened band,
And ancient beards and hoary hair,
Like meteors stream in troubled air.
With locks unshorn not Sampson more
Made useless all the show of war,
Nor fought with ass's jaw for rarity,
-With more success or singularity.
I saw our vet'ran thousands yield,
And pile their musquets on the field;
And peasants guards, in rueful plight,
March off our captur'd bands from fight;
While every rebel-life in play,
To Yankee-doodle tun'd its lay,
And, like the music of the spheres,
Mellifluous sooth' their vanquish'd ears.

"Alas!" said I, what baleful star
Sheds fatal influence on the war,
And who that chosen chief of fame,
That heads this grand parade of shame?"

"There see how fate," great Malcolm [cry'd,
"Strikes with its bolts the tow'rs of pride.
Behold that martial macaroni,
Compound of Phœbus and Bellona,
With warlike sword and singsong lay,

Equipp'd alike for feast or fray,
Where equal wit and valour join ;
This, this is he, the fam'd Burgoyne ;
Who pawn'd his honor and commission,
To coax the patriots to submission,
By songs and balls secure obedience,
And dance the ladies to allegiance,
Oft his camp muses he'll parade
At Boston in the grand blockade ;
And well invok'd with punch of arrack,
Hold converse sweet in tent or barrack,
Inspir'd in more heroic fashion,
Both by his theme and situation ;
While Farce and Proclamation grand,
Rise fair beneath his plastic hand.
For genius swells more strong and clear,
When close confin'd like bottled beer :
So Prior's wit gain'd greater pow'r
By inspiration of the tow'r ;
And Raleigh, fast in prison hurld,
Wrote all the Hist'ry of the World :
So Wilkes grew, while in jail he lay,
More patriotic ev'ry day ;
But found his zeal, when not confin'd,
Soon sink below the freezing point,
And public spirit, once so fair,
Evaporate in open air.
But thou, great favorite of Venus,

By no such luck shall cramp thy gen-
[us ;

Thy friendly stars, till wars shall cease,
Shall ward 'th ill fortune of release,
And hold thee fast, in bonds not feeble,
In good condition still to scribble.

Such merit fate shall shield from firing,
Bomb, carcass, langridge, and cold iron ;
Nor trusts thy doubly-laurel'd head,
To rude assaults of flying lead.

Hence, in this Saratogue retreat,
For pure good fortune thou'lt be beat ;
Not taken oft, releas'd or rescued,
Pass for small change, like simple Prescott ;*

But captur'd there, as fates befall,
Shall stand thy hand for't once for all.
Then raise thy daring thoughts sublime,
And dip thy conqu'ring pen in rhyme,
And changing war for puns and jokes,
Write new Blockades, and Maids of Oaks."†

General Prescott was taken and exchanged several times during the war.*

†"The Maid of the Oaks, and the Blockade of Boston, are farces—the first acknowledged by General Burgoyne; the other generally ascribed to him."

This said, he turn'd and saw the tale
 Had dy'd my trembling cheeks with pale;
 Then, pitying, in a milder vein,
 Pursu'd the visionary strain.

"Too much, perhaps, hath pain'd
 [your views
 Of vict'ries gain'd by rebel crews;
 Now see the deeds, not small nor scanty,
 Of British valor and human'ty;
 And learn from this auspicious sight,
 How England's sons and friends can
 [fight,
 In what dread scenes their courage
 grows,
 And how they conquer all their foes."

I look'd and saw, in wintry skies,
 Our spacious prison-walls arise,
 Where Britons all their captive taming,
 Plied them with scourging, cold, and fam-
 Reduc'd to life's concluding stages, [ine;
 By noxious food and plagues contagious,
 Aloft the mighty *Loring stood,

Loring was a Refugee from Boston, made commissary of prisoners by General Howe. The consummate cruelties practised on the American prisoners under Loring's administration almost exceeded*

And thriv'd like Vampyre,* on their [blood;

And counting all his gains arising,
Delt daily rations out of poison.
Amid the dead that crowd the scene,
The moving skeletons were seen.
At hand our troops, in vaunting strains,

the ordinary powers of human invention. If a simple statement of facts relative to this business were properly drawn up and authenticated, it would furnish the friends of humanity with new images of horror in contemplating the ravages of war; especially a war that obtains the name of rebellion, and is carried on at a distance from the eye of the nation. The conduct of the Turks in putting all prisoners to death is certainly much more rational and humane, than that of the British army for the three first years of the American war, or till after the capture of Burgoyne. We except from this general observation, the conduct of Lord Dorchester in Canada; he acted on the common principles of war, as now practised in Europe.

"The notion of Vampyres is a superstition that has greatly prevailed in many*

Insulted all their wants and pains,
And turn'd on all the dying tribe,
The bitter taunt and scornful gibe :
And British officers of might,
Triumphant at the joyful sight,
O'er foes disarm'd, with courage daring,
Exhausted all their troops of swearing.
Around all stain'd with rebel blood,
Like Milton's lazar-house it stood,
Where grim Despair attended nurse,
And Death was Gov'rnor of the house.
Amaz'd, I cried, 'Is this the way
That British Valor wins the day ?'
More had I said, in strains unwelcome,
Till interrupted thus by Malcolm :
"Blame not," quoth he, "but learn the [reason
Of this new mode of conqu'ring treason,
'Tis but a wise, politic plan,
To root out all the rebel clan ;
(For surely treason ne'er can thrive,
Where not a soul is left alive :)
A scheme, all other chiefs to surpass,
And do th' effectual work to purpose ;

parts of Europe. They pretend it is a dead body, which rises out of its grave in the night, and sucks the blood of the living."

For war itself is nothing further,
But th' art and mystery of murder,
And who most methods has essay'd,
Is the best Gen'ral of the trade,
And stands Death's Plenipotentiary,
To conquer, poison, starve and bury.
This Howe well knew, and thus began,
(Despising Carleton's coaxing plan,
Who kept his pris'ners well and merry,
And dealt them food like Commissary,
And by paroles and ransoms vain,
Dismiss'd them all to fight again :)
Whence his first captives, with great [spirit,
He tied up for his troops to fire at,*
And hop'd they'd learn, on foes thus [taken,
To aim at rebels without shaking.
Then wise in stratagem, he plann'd
The sure destruction of the land,
Turn'd famine, sickness, and despair,
To useful enginery of war,
Instead of cannon, musket, mortar,

*“This was done openly, and without censure, by the troops under Howe’s command, in many instances, on his first conquest of Long-Island.”

Us'd pestilence and death, and torture,
Sent forth the small pox, and the grea-
[ter,

To thin the land of every traitor,
And order'd out with like endeavor,
Detachments of the prison fever;
Spread desolation o'er their head,
And plagues in Providence's stead,
Perform'd with equal skill and beauty,
Th' avenging angel's tour of duty,
Brought all the elements to join,
And stars t' assist the great design;
As once in league with Kishon's brook,
Fam'd Israel's foes they fought and took.
Then proud to raise a glorious name,
And em'lous of his country's fame,
He bade these prison-walls arise,
Like temple tow'ring to the skies,
Where British clemency renown'd,
Might fix her seat on sacred ground;
(That virtue, as each herald saith,
Of whole blood kin to Punic faith;)
Where all her godlike pow'rs unveiling,
She finds a grateful shrine to dwell in.
Then, at his altar for her honor,
Chose his High-Priest to wait upon her,
Who, with just rites, in ancient guises,
Presents these human sacrifices;

Great Loring, fam'd above all laymen,
A proper Priest for Lybian Ammon,
Who, while Howe's gift his brows adorns,
Had match'd that deity in horns.
Here ev'ry day her vot'ries tell,
She more devours than th' idol Bel ;
And thirsts more rav'nously for gore,
Than any worshipp'd Power before.
That ancient Heathen Godhead, Moloch,
Oft stay'd his stomach with a bullock,
Or if his morning rage you'd check first,
One child suffic'd him for a breakfast.
But British clemency, with zeal,
Devours her hundreds at a meal ;
Right well by Nat'ralists defin'd,
A being of carniv'rous kind :
So erst* Gargantau pleas'd his palate,
And ate his pilgrims up for sallad.
Not blest with maw less ceremonious,
The wide-mouth whale that swallow'd
[Jonas ;
Like earthquake gapes, to death devote,
That open sepulchre, her throat ;
The grave, or barren womb you'd stuff,
And sooner bring to cry, enough ;

“ *See Rabelais's History of the Giant Gargantau.”

Or fatten up to fair condition,
The lean-flesh'd kine of Pharaoh's vi-
[sion.

“Behold her temple, where it stands
Erect by fam'd Britannic hands ;
'Tis the black hold of Indian structure,
New built with English architecture,
On plan, 'its said, contriv'd and wrote
By Clive, before he cut his throat ;
Who, ere he took himself in hand,
Was her High-Priest in nabob-land :
And when, with conqu'ring glory
[crown'd,

He'd well enslav'd the nation round,
With pitying heart, the generous chief,
(Since slav'ry 's worse than loss of life,
Bade desolation circle far,
And famine end the work of war ;
Thus loos'd their chains, and for their [merits,
Dismiss'd them free to worlds of spirits,
Whence they, with gratitude and praise,
Return'd† t' attend his latter days,

† “Clive, in the latter years of his life, conceived himself perpetually haunted by the ghosts of those, who were the victims of his British humanity in the East Indies.”

And, hov'ring round his restless bed,
Spread nightly visions o'er his head.

"Now turn," he cried, "to nobler
[sights,

And mark the prowess of our fights :
Behold, like whelps of British lion,
The warriors, Clinton, Vaughan, and [Tryon,

March forth with patriotic joy,
To ravish, plunder, burn, destroy.
Great gen'als, foremost in the nation,
The journeymen of Desolation !
Like Samson's foxes, each assails,
Let loose with firebrands in their tails,
And spreads destruction more forlorn,
Than they did in Philistine corn.
And see ! in flames their triumphs rise,
Illuming all the nether skies,
And streaming, like a new Aurora,
The western hemisphere with glory !
What towns, in ashes laid, confess
These heroes' prowess and success !
What blacken'd walls, or burning fane,
For trophies spread the ruin'd plain !
What females, caught in evil hour,
By force submit to British pow'r,
Or plunder'd negroes, in disaster,
Confess King George their Lord and [Master !

What crimson corse strew their way,
Till smoking carnage dims the day!
Along the shore, for sure reduction,
They wield their besom of destruction.
Great Homer likens, in his Illias,
To dog-star bright the fierce Achilles;
But ne'er beheld, in red procession,
Three dog-stars rise in constellation;
Or saw in glooms of ev'ning misty,
Such signs of fiery triplic'ty,
Which, far beyond the comet's tail,
Portend destruction where they sail.
Oh! had Great-Britain's godlike shore
Produc'd but ten such heroes more,
They'd spar'd the pains, and held the [station
Of this world's final conflagration,
Which, when its time comes, at a stand,
Would find its work all done to 'ts
[hand!

“ Yet though gay hopes our eyes may [bless,

Indignant fate forbids success;
Like morning dreams, our conquest flies,
Dispers'd before the dawn arise.”

Here Malcolm paus'd; when, pond'-
[ring long,

Grief thus gave utt'rance to my tongue:

“Where shrink in fear our friends
[dismay’d,
And all the Tories’ promis’d aid ?
Can none, amid these fierce alarms,
Assist the pow’r of royal arms !”

“In vain,” he cried, “our King de[pends
On promis’d aid of Tory-friends,
When our own efforts want success,
Friends ever fail, as fears increase.
As leaves in blooming verdure wove,
In warmth of summer clothe the grove ;
But when autumnal frosts arise,
Leave bare their trunks to wintry skies ;
So while your pow’r can aid their ends,
You ne’er can need ten thousand friends ;
But, once in want, by foes dismay’d,
May advertise them stol’n or stray’d.
Thus, ere Great Britain’s strength
[grew slack,
She gain’d that aid she did not lack ;
But now in dread, imploring pity,
Al! hear, unmov’d her dol’rous ditty ;
Allegiance wand’ring turns astray,
And faith grows dim for lack of pay.
In vain she tries by new inventions,
Fear, falsehood, flatt’ry, threats and [pensions ;

Or sends Commiss'ners with credentials*
Of promises and penitentials.
As, for his fare o'er Styx of old,
The Trojan stole the bough of gold ;
And, lest grim Cerb'rus should make [head,

* The passage that here follows is to be explained thus : In the year 1778, after the war had been raging three years, and the capture of Burgoyne's army was known in England, the British government concluded to give up all the objects for which the contest had been begun. It accordingly passed an act repealing all the acts of which the Americans complained, provided we would rescind our declaration of independence, and continue to be their Colonies. The Ministry then sent over three commissioners, Mr. Johnstone, Mr. Eden, and Lord Carlisle. These commissioners began their operations, and (finished them by attempting to bribe individuals among the members of the States, and of the army. This bait appears to have caught nobody but Arnold. The petticoated politician, here mentioned, is a woman of Philadelphia, (and a lady of considerable

Stuff'd both his fobs with * gingerbread.
 Behold, at Britain's utmost shifts,
 Comes Johnstone, loaded with like gifts,
 To venture through the Whiggish tribe,
 To cuddle, wheedle, coax, and bribe,
 Enter their lands, and on his journey,
 Possession take, as King's attorney ;
 Buy all the vassals to protect him,
 And bribe the tenants not t' eject him ;
 And call, to aid his desp'rate mission.
 His petticoated politician ;
 While Venus, join'd t' assist the farce,
 Strolls forth ambassador for Mars.
 In vain he strives, (for while he lingers
 These mastiffs bite his off'ring fingers,)
 Nor buys for George and realms infer[nal,
 One spaniel, but the mongrel Arnold.
 'Twere vain to paint in vision'd show,
 The mighty nothings done by Howe ;
 What towns he takes in mortal-fray,
 As stations, whence to run away ;

distinction) through whose agency they offered a bribe to Joseph Read, Governor of Pennsylvania.

* ——— Medicatum frugibus offam.
Æneid, lib. vi. 410.

What conquests gain'd in battles warm,
 To us no aid, to them no harm ;
 For still th' event alike is fatal,
 Whate'er success attend the battle,
 If he gain victory, or lose it,
 Who ne'er had skill enough to use it ;
 And better 'twere, at their expense,
 T' have drubb'd him into common sense,
 And wak'd, by bastings on his rear,
 Th' activity, though but of fear.
 By slow advance his arms prevail,
 Like emblematic march of snail ;
 That, be Millennium nigh or far,
 'Twould long before him end the war.
 From York to Philadelphian ground,
 He sweeps the mighty flourish round,
 Wheel'd circ'lar by eccentric stars,
 Like racing boys at prison-bars ;*
 Who take the adverse crew in whole,
 By running round the opp'site goal ;

*Prison-bars is a kind of juvenile contest, sufficiently described here. How far our author is justifiable in comparing to it the operation of General Howe in America, is left to be determined by those military men who know the history of his manœuvres.

Works wide the traverse of his course,
Like ship in storms' opposing force;
Like mill-horse, circling in his race,
Advances not a single pace,
And leaves no trophies of reduction,
Save that of canker-worms, destruction,
Thus having long both countries curst,
He quits them, as he found them first,
Steers home disgrac'd of little worth,
To join Burgoyne, and rail at North.

"Now raise thine eyes, and view with [pleasure,

The triumphs of his farn'd successor,"

I look'd, and now by magic lore,
Faint rose to view the Jersey shore;
But dimly seen, in glooms array'd,
For Night had pour'd her sable shade,
And ev'ry star, with glimm'rings pale,
Was muffled deep in evening veil:
Scarcely visible in dusky night,
Advancing Red-Coats* rose to sight;
The lengthen'd train, in gleaming rows,
Stole silent from their slumb'ring folds;
Slow mov'd the baggage, and the train
Like snails, crept noiseless o'er the plain;
No trembling soldier dar'd to speak,

*Red-Coats, a term for British troops.

And not a wheel presum'd to creak.
My looks my new surprise confess'd,
Till by great Malcolm thus address'd
"Spend not thy wits in vain researches;
'Tis one of Clinton's moonlight marches.
From Philadelphia now retreating,
To save his anxious troops a beating,
With hasty strides he flies in vain,
His rear attack'd on Monmouth plain:
With various chance the mortal fray
Is lengthen'd to the close of day,
When his tir'd bands, o'ermatch'd in [fight,
Are rescu'd by descending night,
He forms his camp with vain parade,
Till evening spreads the world with [shade,
Then still, like some endanger'd spark,
Steals off on tiptoe in the dark;
Yet writes his king, in bosting tone,
How grand he march'd by light of moon.*

* The circumstance of Gen. Clinton's official despatches giving an account of his marching from Monmouth by moon light, furnished a subject of some pleasantry in America; where it was known that the moon had set two hours before the march began.

I see him, but thou canst not ; proud
He leads in front the trembling crowd,
And wisely knows, if danger's near,
'Twill fall the heaviest on his rear.
Go on, great Gen'ral, nor regard
The scoffs of ev'ry scribbling bard,
Who sings how Gods that fatal night
Aided by miracles your flight,
As once they us'd, in Homer's day,
To help weak heroes run away ;
Tell how the hours of awful trial,
Went back, as erst on Ahaz' dial,
While British Joshua stay'd the moon,
On Monmouth plains, for Ajalon :
Heed not their sneers and gibes so arch,
Because she set before your march.
A small mistake, your meaning right,
You take her influence for her light ;
Her influence, which shall be your guide,
And o'er your Gen'ralship preside.
Hence still shall teem your empty skull,
With vict'ries when the moon's at full,
Which by transition yet more strange,
Wane to defeats before the change ;
Hence all your movements, all your no-
[tions,
Shall steer by like eccentric motions,
Eclips'd in many a fatal crisis,

And dimn'd when Washington arises.
 And see how fate herself, turn'd traitor,

Inverts the ancient course of nature,
 And changes manners, tempers, climes,
 To suit the genius of the times.

See Bourbon forms his gen'rous plan,
 First guardian of the rights of man,
 And prompt in firm alliance joins,
 To aid the Rebels' proud designs.

Behold from realms of eastern day,
 His sails innum'rous shape their way,

In warlike line the billows sweep,
 And roll the thunders of the deep,

See, low in equinoctial skies,
 The Western Islands fall their prize.

See British flags o'ermatch'd in might,
 Put all their fath in instant flight ;

Or broken squadrons from th' affray ;
 Drag slow their wounded hulks away,

Behold his chiefs in daring sets,
 D'Estaings, De Grasses, and Fayette's,

Spread through our camps their dread
 [alarms,

And swell the fears of rebel-arms.

Yet, ere our empire sink in night,
 One gleam of hope shall strike the sight ;

As lamps that fail of oil and fire,

Collect one glimm'ring to expire.
And lo ! where southern shores extend,
Behold our union'd hosts descend,
Where Charleston views, with varying [beams,
Her turrents glid th' encircling streams.
There, by superior might compell'd,
Behold their gallant Lincoln yield,*
Nor ought the wreaths avail him now,
Pluck'd from Burgoyne's imperious
[brow.
See, furious from the vanquish'd stand,
Cornwallis leads his mighty band !
The southern realms and Georgian shore
Submit, and own the victor's pow'r.
Lo, sunk before his wasting way,
The Carolinas fall his prey !
In vain embattled hosts of foes
Essay in warring strife t' oppose.

General Lincoln was second in command in the army of General Gates, during the campaign of 1777, which ended in the capture of General Burgoyne. He is an officer of great reputation. He afterwards commanded the army in South Carolina, and was taken prisoner with the garrison of Charleston in 1780.*

See, shrinking from his conqu'ring eye,
The rebel legions fall or fly ;
And, with'ring in these torrid skies,
The northern laurel fades and dies.*
With rapid force he leads his band
To fair Virginia's fated strand,
Triumphant eyes the travell'd zone,
And boasts the southern realms his own.
Nor yet this hero's glories bright
Blaze only in the fields of fight ;
Not Howe's human'ty more deserving,
In gifts of hanging, and of starving ;
Not Arnold plunders more tobacco,
Or steals more negroes for Jamaica ;†

 This refers to the fortune of General Gates, who, after having conquered Gen. Burgoyne in the North, was defeated by Lord Cornwallis in the South.*

† Arnold, in the year 1781, having been converted to the cause of Great Britain, commanded a detachment of their army in Virginia ; where he plundered many cargoes of negroes and of tobacco, and sent them to Jamaica for his own account.— How far the Lords Rodney and Cornwallis might have excelled him in this kind of heroic achievements, time will perhaps never discover.

Scarce Rodney's self, among th' Eusta-
[tians,
Insults so well the laws of nations ;
Ev'n Tryon's fame grows dim, and [mourning,
He yields the laurel crown of burning.
I see with rapture and surprise,
New triumphs sparkling in thine eyes ;
But view, where now renew'd in might,
Again the rebels dare the fight."

I look'd, and far in southern skies,
Saw Greene, their second hope, arise,
And with his small but gallant band,
Invade the Carolinian land.
As winds, in stormy circles whirl'd,
Rush billowing o'er the darken'd world,
And, where their wasting fury roves,
Successive sweep th' astonish'd groves.
Thus where he pours the rapid fight,
Our boasted conquests sink in night,
And wide o'er all th' extended field,
Our forts resign, our armies yield,
Till, now regain'd the vanquish'd land,
He lifts his standard on the strand.

Again to fair Virginia's coast,
I turn'd and view'd the British host,
Where Chesapeak's wide waters lave
Her shores, and join th' Atlantic wave.

There fam'd Cornwallis tow'ring rose,
And scorn'd secure his distant foes ;
His bands the haughty rampart raise,
And bid the royal standard blaze.
When lo, where ocean's bounds extend,
I saw the Gallic sails ascend,
With fav'ring breezes stem their way,
And crowd with ships the spacious bay.
Lo, Washington, from nothern shores
O'er many a region, wheels his chariot
And Rochambeau, with legion's might,
Descends in terrors to the fight.
Not swifter cleaves his rapid way,
The eagle cow'ring o'er his prey,
Or knights in fam'd romance that fly
On fairy pinions through the sky.
Amaz'd, the Briton's startled pride
Sees ruin wake on ev'ry side ;
And, all his troops to fate consign'd,
By instantaneous stroke Burgoyne'd.
Not Cadmus view'd with more surprise,
From earth embattled armies rise,
When, by superior pow'r impell'd,
He sow'd with dragon's teeth the field.
Here Gallic troops in terror stand,
There rush in arms the Rebel band ;
Nor hope remains from mortal fight,
Or that last British refuge flight.

I saw, with looks downcast and grave,
The Chief emerging from his cave,*
(Where, chac'd like hare in mighty
[round,
His hunters earth'd him first in ground,)
And, doom'd by Fate to rebel sway,
Yield all his captur'd hosts a pray.

There, while I view'd the vanquish'd
[town,
Thus with a sigh my friend went on :
"Behold'st thou not that band forlorn,
Like slaves in Roman triumphs borne :
Their faces length'ning with their fears,
And cheeks distain'd with streams of [tears,
Like dramatis personæ sage,
Equipt to act on Tyburn's stage ?
Lo, these are they, who lur'd by follies,
Left all and follow'd great Cornwallis ;
True to their King, with firm devotion,
For conscience sake, and hop'd promo-
[tion,
Expectant of the promis'd glories,
And new Millennial state of Tories.

* "Alluding to the well-known fact of Cornwallis's taken up his residence in a cave, during the seige of Yorktown."

Alas ! in vain, all doubts forgetting,
They tried th' omnipotence of Britain ;
But found her arm, once strong and [brave,

So shorten'd now she cannot save.
Not more aghast departed souls,
Who risk'd their fate on Popish bulls,
And find St. Peter at the wicket
Refuse to countersign their ticket,
When driv'n to purgatory back,
With all their pardons in their pack :
Then Tories must'ring at their stations
On faith of royal proclamations.
As pagan Chiefs at ev'ry crisis,
Confirm'd their leagues by sacrifices,
And herds of beasts to all their deities,
Oblations fell at close of treaties :
Cornwallis thus, in ancient fashion,
Concludes his league of cap'tulation,
And victims, due to Rebel-glories,
Gives this sin-off'ring up of Tories.
See where, reliev'd from sad embargo,
Steer off consign'd a recreant cargo,
Like old scape-goats to roam in pain,
Mark'd like their great forerunner, Cain.
The rest, now doom'd by British leagues,
To justice of resentful Whigs,
Hold worthless lives on tenure ill,

Of tenancy at Rebel-will,
While hov'ring o'er their forfeit persons,
The gallows waits his sure reversions.

"Thou too, M'Fingal, ere that day,
Shalt taste the terrors of th' affray.
See! o'er the hangs in angry skies,
Where Whiggish constellations rise,
And while plebeian signs ascend,
Their mob-inspiring aspects bend,
That baleful Star, whose *horrid hair
Shakes forth the plagues of down and tar!
I see the pole, that rears on high
Its flag terrific through the sky;
The mob beneath prepar'd t' attack,
And tar predestin'd for thy back!
Ah! quit, my friend, this dang'rous

[home,

Nor wait the darker scenes to come;
For know that Fate's auspicious door,
Once shut to flight, is op'd no more,
Nor wears its hinge by various stations,
Like mercy's door in proclamations.†

*"———*From his horrid hair
Shakes pestilence and war.*" Milton.

†The door of mercy is now open, and the door of mercy will be shut, where phrases so often used in the proclamations

" But lest thou pause, or doubt to fly,
 To stranger visions turn thine eye :
 Each cloud that dimm'd thy mental ray,
 And all the mortal mists decay ;
 See more than human Pow'rs befriend,
 And lo, their hostile forms ascend !
 See, tow'ring o'er th' extended strand,
 The Genius of the western land,
 In vengeance arm'd his sword assumes.
 And stands, like Tories, drest in plumes.
 See, o'er yon Council seat with pride,
 How Freedom spreads her banners wide !
 There Patriotism with torch address'd,
 To fire with zeal each daring breast !
 While all the Virtues in their band,
 Escape from yon unfriendly land,

of the British Generals in America, that our Poet seems to fear that the hinge of that door will be worn out. A general collection of these proclamations, or an abridgement of them comprised in a few volumes, would form a curious system of rhetorical tactics ; which might be of great utility to the French emigrant princes, and to those potentates of Europe, who are going to subdue the spirit of Liberty in France.

Desert their ancient British station,
Possess'd with rage of emigration,
Honor, his business at a stand,
For fear of starving, quits the land ;
And Justice, long disgrac'd at Court, had
By Mansfield's sentence been transport-
[ed,

Vict'ry and Fame attend their way,
Though Britain wish their longer stay,
Care not what George or North would [be at,

Nor heed their writs of ne exeat ;
But, fir'd with love of colonizing,
Quit the fall'n empire for the rising."

I look'd and saw, with horror smitten,
These hostile powers averse to Britain.
When lo ! an awful spectre rose,
With languid paleness on his brows :
Wan dropsies swell' his form beneath,
And ic'd his bloated cheeks with death ;
His tatter'd robe expos'd him bare,
To ev'ry blast of ruder air ;
On two weak crutches propp'd, he stood,
That bent at ev'ry step he trod ;
Gilt titles grac'd their sides so slender,
One, "Regulation," t'other, "Tender ;"
His breast-plate grav'd with various [dates,
"The faith of all th' United States :"

Before him went his fun'ral pall ;
His grave stood dug to wait his fall.
I started, and aghast I cry'd,
"What means this spectre at their side ?
What danger from a Pow'r so vain,
And why he joins that splendid train ?"

"Alas !" great Malcolm cry'd, "expe[rience

Might teach you not to trust appearance,
Here stands, as drest by fierce Bellona,
The ghost of Continental Money,
Of dame necessity decended,
With whom Credulity engender'd
Though born with constitution frail
And feeble strength that soon must fail ;
Yet strangely vers'd in magic lore,
And gifted with transforming pow'r,
His skill the wealth Peruvian joins
With diamonds of Brazilians mines.

As erst Jove fell, by subtle wiles,
On Dame's apron through the tiles,
In show'rs of gold : his potent hand
Shall shed like show'rs through all the [land.

Less great the magic art was reckon'd
Of tallies cast by Charles the Second,
Or Law's fam'd Mississippi schemes,
Or all the wealth of South-Sea dreams.

For he, of all the world alone,
Owns the long-sought Philos-pher's
[Stone,

Restores the fab'lous times to view,
And proves the tale of Midas true.
O'er heaps of rage he waves his wand,
All turn to gold at his command.

Provide for present wants and future,,
Raise armies, victual, clothe, accoutre,
Adorn our conquests by essoigne,
Check Howe's advance, and take

[Burgoyne,

Then make all days of payment vain,
And turns all back to rags again.
In vain great Howe shall play his part,
To ape and counterfeit his art ;
In vain shall Clinton, more belated,
A conj'rer turn to imitate it ;
With like ill luck and pow'r as narrow,
They'll fare, like sorc'ers of old

[Pharaoh,

Who, though the art they understood,
Of turning rivers into blood,
And caus'd their frogs and snakes t' exist,
That with some merit croak'd and hiss'd,
Yet ne'er, by ev'ry quaint device,
Could frame the true Mosaic lice.
He for the Whigs his arts shall try,

Their first, and long their sole ally ;
A patriot firm, while breath he draws,
He'll perish in his country's cause ;
And when his magic labours cease,
Lie bury'd in eternal peace.

" Now view the scenes in future hours,
That wait the fam'd European Pow'rs.
See ! where yon chalky cliffs arise,
The hills of Britain strike your eyes :
Its small extention long supply'd
By vast immensity of pride ;
So small, that had it found a station
In this new world at first creation,
Or were by Justice doom'd to suffer,
And for his crimes transported over,
We'd find full room for't in Lake

[Erie, or
That larger water-pond, Superior,*

* This supposition, so far as it respects Lake Superior, is not exaggerated. That Lake is 2200 miles in circumference. It is supposed by some, that in this passage the Author meant to ridicule the misfortune of Lord North, in the loss of his sight. But as this poem was written and published, word for word, as in this edition, several years before that misfortune hap-

Where North, on margin taking stand,
Would not be able to spy land,
No more, elate with pow'r at ease
She deals her insults round the seas ;
See ! dwindling from her height amain,
What piles of ruin spread the plain ;
What mould'ring hulks her ports are

[fill'd,

And brambles clothe the cultur'd field !
See, on her cliffs her Genius lies,
His handkerchief at both his eyes,
With many a deep-drawn sigh and groan,
To mourn her ruin and his own !
While joyous Holland, France, and [Spain,

With conqu'ring navies rule the main,
And Russian banners, wide unfurl'd,
Spread commerce round the eastern

pened, the Author must be innocent of the least design upon any thing more than mental blindness. There is no allusion to any other eyes in his lordshp, than the eyes of his understanding, which were supposed, by people at that time to be wonderfully dim ; especially when considered as belonging to the Argus of a great nation.

And see (sight hateful and tormenting)
Th' Amer'can empire, proud and vaunt-
[ing,
From anarchy shall change her crasis,
And fix her pow'r on firmer basis ;
To glory, wealth, and fame ascend ;
Her commerce rise, her realms extend ;
Where now the panther guards his den,
Her desert forests swarm with men,
Her cities, tow'rs and columns rise,
And dazzling temples meet the skies ;
Her pines descending to the main,
In triumph, spread the wat'ry plain ;
Ride inland lakes with fav'ring gales,
And crowd her ports with whit'ning sails,
Till to the skirts of western day,
The peopled regions own her sway."

Thus far M'Fingal told his tale,
When thund'ring shouts his ears assail,
And straight a Tory that stood sentry,
Aghast, rush'd headlong down the entry,
And with wild outcry, like magician,
Dispers'd the residue of vision :
For now the Whigs intell'gence found
Of tories must'ring under ground,
And with rude bangs and loud uproar,
'Gan thunder furious at the door.
The lights put out, each Tory calls,

To cover him, on cellar walks,
Creeps in each box, or bin, or tub,
To hide his head from wrath of mob,
Or lurks where cabbages in row
Adorn'd the side with verdant show ;
M'Fingal deem'd it vain to stay,
And risk his bones in second fray ;
But chose a grand retreat from foes,
In lit'ral sense, beneath their nose,
The window then which none else knew,
He softly open'd and crept through
And crawling slow in deadly fear,
By movements wise, made good his rear;
Then scorning all the fame of martyr,
For Boston took his swift departure ;
Nor dar'd look back on fatal spot,
More than the family of Lot.
Not North, in more distress'd condition,
Out-voted first by Opposition :
Nor good King George, when that dire
[phantom,
Of Independence comes to haunt him,
Which hov'ring round by night and day,
Not all his conj'ers yet can lay.
His friends, assembled for his sake,
He wisely left in pawn, at stake,
To tarring, feath'ring, kicks and drubs
Of furious, disappointed mobs,

And with their forfeit hides to pay
For him, their leader crept away.
So when wise Noah summon'd, greeting,
All animals to gen'ral meeting ;
From ev'ry side the members sent
All kinds of beasts to represent ;
Each from the flood took care t' embark,
And save his carcass in the ark ;
But as it fares in state and church,
Left his constituents in the lurch.

FINIS.

BATTLE OF THE KEGS.

GALLANTS attend, and hear a friend,
Trill forth harmonious ditty, :
Strange things I'll tell, which late befel,
In Philadelphia city.

'Twas early day, as poets say,
Just when the sun was rising,
A soldier stood, on log of wood,
And saw a sight surprising.

As in a maze, he stood to gaze,
The truth can't be den'd, sir,
He spi'd a score—of kegs or more,
Come floating down the tide, sir,

A sailor too, in jerkin blue,
The strange appearance viewing,
First damn'd his eyes, in great surprise,
Then said—some mischief's brewing.

These Kegs now hold the rebels bold,
Pac'k up like pickled herring ;

And they're come down t' attack the
this new way of ferrying. [town,

The soldier flew, the sailor too,
And scar'd almost to death, sir,
Wore out their shoes, to spread the news,
And ran till out of breath, sir.

Now up and down, throughout the town,
Most frantic scenes were acted ;
And some ran here, and some ran there
Like men almost distracted.

Some fire cry'd, which some deny'd,
But said the earth had quaked :
And girls and boys, with hideous noise,
Ran through the town half naked,

Sir William he, snug as a flea,
Lay all this time a snoring,
Nor dreamt of harm, as he lay warm
In bed with Mrs. L——g.

Now in a fright, he starts upright,
Awak'd by such a clatter :
He rubs both eyes, and boldly cries,
“ For God's sake what's the matter ? ”

At his bed side, he then espi'd
Sir Erskine at command, sir,
Upon one foot he had one boot,
And t'other in his hand, sir.

Arise ! Arise ! Sir Erskine cries :
The rebels—more's the pity—
Without a boat are all on float,
And rang'd before the city.

The motly crew, in vessels new,
With Satan for their guide, sir,
Pack'd up in bags, or wooden KEGS,
Come driving down the tide, sir.

Therefore prepare for bloody war ;
These KEGS must all be routed :
Or surely we despis'd shall be ;
And British courage doubted.

The royal band now ready stand,
All rang'd in dread array, sir,
With stomach stout, to see it out,
And make a bloody day, sir.

The cannons roar, from shore to shore ;
The small arms make a rattle :

Since wars began, I'm sure no man
E'er saw so strange a battle.

The rebel vales, the rebel dales,
With rebel trees surrounded,
The distant woods, the hills, and floods,
With rebel echoes sounded.

The fish below swam to and fro,
Attack'd from ev'ry quarter:
Why sure, thought they, the devil's to
'Mongat folks above the water. [pay,

The mugs, 'tis said, tho' strongly made,
Of rebel staves and hoops, sir,
Could not oppose their pow'rful foes,
The conqu'ring British troops, sir.

From morn to night these men of might
Display'd amazing courage;
And when the sun was fairly down,
Retir'd to sup their porridge.

An hundred men, with each a pen,
Or more upon my word, sir,
It is most true, would be too few,
Their valor to record, sir.

Such feats did they perform that day,
Upon these wicked KEES, sir ;
That years to come if they get home,
They'll make their boasts and brags sir.

MARCH OF MONTGOMERY, &c.

March of Montgomery for Canada—Surrender of several important posts to the American Arms—The storming of Quebec—and death of Montgomery.

AND now intent on bold enterprize,
Montgomery left serener skies.

Which gird the eastern coast ;
And rapid march'd at thy command,
To check Ontario's savage band ;
And combat Carlton's host.

Oft did the clouds in angry form,
Downgroaning mountains lash the storm,
To impede his ardent course ;

And boreal, blast, condensing cold,
Athwart the wild their armies roll'd,
To chill life's vital force.

Inur'd in toil, to hardships known,
He rush'd along the frozen zone,
A drear tremendous waste :
Freedom's pure flame his soul inspir'd,
And gallant troops, by glory fir'd,
Prest on, with equal haste.

Whelm'd in the wave, they sought the

Nor snow, wide arching Mammoth's den

At eve benumb'd with torpid cold,
Their limbs the frosted blanket roll'd ;
Nor cheering fires to warm :
Whilst round them burst the winds of [heaven,
And rain, sleet, hail, impetuous driven,
Wing'd one continual storm.
